GERMANY TO TEUTON GRIP MODERN WAR STILL HOLDS FOR ERROR RUMANIANS

BERNSTORFF AND
LANSING CONFER

GERMAN SUBMARINE COMMANDER
THOUGHT BRITISH STEAMER
MARINA WAS TRANSPORT—NO DEFINITE INFORMATION.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The German submarine commander who sank the British steamer Marina with the loss of six Americans has reported that he thought the vessel was a transport.

Germany has asked the United States for information regarding the status of the vessel and is ready to offer amends if she was entitled to immunity.

The Marina case was discussed at a conference between Secretary Lansing and German Ambassador von Bernstorff today but neither seemed to have information complete enough for a determination of the case.

It is understood here that if the United States can inform Germany that the Marina was not in the British transport service and entitled to immunities of a peaceful merchant ship that Berlin is ready to acknowledge her error and make a settlement satisfactory to the United States. President Wilson would pass upon any understanding between the German ambassador and Secretary Lansing.

Lansing Confers With President.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Secretary Lansing went to the White House this afternoon to discuss the Marina case with President Wilson. The secretary refused to talk on the subject.

MORGAN WITHDRAWS TREASURY NOTE LOAN

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—J. P. Morgan & company have withdrawn the proposed sale of British and French treasury bills on instructions from abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Redding and little son, came to Daytona Wednesday evening from Jacksonville to spend Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Smith at the Morgan hotel.

INVADERS WITHIN 16
MILES OF BUCHAREST

RUSSIANS MADE VIOLENT AT-TACKS ON MOLDAVIAN FRONT
IN ATTEMPT TO CREATE A DI-VERSION.

The Teutonic grip on Rumania remains unshaken. Last reports indicated that the three converging forces were continuing an unchecked advance toward Bucharest.

The invaders are now almost within gunshot of the Rumanian capital, being at Attzomna, 16 miles to the southwest. They have reached Galvatziotzu, 40 miles to the westward, and broken the Rumanian lines at Torozburg Pass and Campulung to the northwest.

Petrograd reported pronounced success along the Moldavian front, where the Russians are attempting to create a diversion in favor of Rumania. The report said that the Russians took the whole range of heights south of Kirliababa.

The report from Berlin says the Russians and Rumanians attacked violently over a front of nearly two hundred miles, but obtained no important advantages.

It is declared in the German report that the forces driving for Bucharest have taken more than 2,500 prisoners.

Greece appears to be in its greatest crisis, the ultimatum regarding Greek arms and ammunition having expired. King Constantine is reported to have definitely refused to comply with its demands.

In Macedonia the Serbians lost one trench during a violent German and Bulgarian counter-attack near Gurnishte, Paris announced.

Russians Claim Successes.
PETROGRAD, Dec. 1.—The Russian offensive movement has been successful along the whole Rumanian frontier south of Kirliababa, says the official statement. The Russians have occupied the whole range of heights despite violent German counter-attacks.

For Thirteenth Season Daily News Appears

Thirteen has never had any ill omens for the Daily News, and today's issue marks the beginning of the thirteenth successful season of the paper.

The Daily News today and the Daily News at its inception look little alike. Like the city of Daytona in those days gone by, the Daily News was in the beginning a small four-page paper, without telegraphic news service and compared very poorly in other respects with the Daily News of today—a newspaper that is generally conceded by the newspaper fraternity to be the best "small-town" newspaper in the south.

The Daily News today greets its readers with the superb news service furnished by the Associated Press. It also conveys to its readers the closing quotations on the New York Stock Exchange, a service far superior to that carried by any other daily newspaper on the East Coast of Florida.

But for all these improvements over former years the Daily News management by no means deserves all of the credit. The improvements are possible primarily because the Daily News has been popular with the people; because the business men realize its value as an advertising medium and have as a result accorded to the publication such patronage as to make the improvements possible.

With its initial issue the Daily News is somewhat handicapped in that all the places on its staff have not been filled and the paper will be issued for a few days under an exceptional mental and physical strain, but very shortly the organization that prepares and produces the Daily News will be running with a smoothness of perfection.

No rash promises are being made other than that the Daily News this season, as ever heretofore, will be a booster for the best interests of the welfare of Daytona, its citizens and tourists.

The local news will be covered in such a way as to publish all important news that is fit to print, and the appropriate slogan of the past—"If you read it in the Daily News it's pretty apt to be that way"—will be followed as far as possible to eliminate human errors.

SUBMARINE BELIEVED SIGHTED NEAR HATTERAS

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Officers of the American steamer Crofton Hall reported today that they had sighted an unidentified vessel 40 miles east of Diamond Shoals, Cape Hatteras, on the night of November 29, which they believed was a submarine. The vessel rode low in the water and did not have the usual side lights. It was following a Spanish sailing vessel in a southerly direction, said the officers.

RETURNS FROM ATTENDING NATIONAL HOTEL CONGRESS

L. M. Waite, manager of the Despland hotel, returned Wednesday night from a ten days' business trip to New York which included attendance at the National Hotel congress held in that city which Mr. Waite states was a great success and largely attended, about 1,200 hotel men from all sections, being present.

PROMINENT PEOPLE GO TO FINAL REST

LAST RITES OVER BODY OF DEAD MONARCH.

VIENNA, Dec. 1.—The body of Emperor Francis Josef was buried in the Capuchin crypt yesterday afternoon. The services at St. Stephen's cathedral were severely plain and simple, lasting only 13 minutes. There was no organ accompaniment. Emperor Charles, King of Rumania, Bulgaria, and Hungary, the German crown prince and a large number of Teutonic princes and special envoys from neutral governments were present.

CALLED TO HER NORTHERN HOME BY MOTHER'S DEATH

Miss Naomi Grothaus, a member of the high school faculty, left Wednesday for her home in Bremen, Ohio, where she was called to attend the funeral of her mother, whose death resulted from injuries received by a fall. Miss Grothaus, who has been in charge of the domestic science department of the high school for the past two years, has the sympathy of friends here in her bereavement.

A. P. Robert and young son, Frank, were Bunnell visitors between trains, Thanksgiving day.

THANKSGIVING DAY OBSERVANCE HERE

Thanksgiving day was pretty generally observed in Daytona by the closing of the business and the city wore a Sabbath-like appearance. A beautiful one, though, at times from sunshine and at times back again.

The union Thanksgiving services held in the Congregational church at 10:30 a. m., were largely attended. The sermon was delivered by Rev. E. W. Hodge, pastor of the First M. E. church, and there was special music for the occasion. The social decorations were very beautiful.

BUILDING BRIEFS

The Magnolia Novelty works has obtained the contracts for two new dwelling houses in Daytona. The work will commence within two weeks.

A. N. Otis, assistant cashier of the Merchants' Bank, is erecting a new garage at his home in Bostwick Park. Jacob Espedahl has charge of the building.

The Magnolia Novelty works is rushing the work on Mrs. L. Mullen's new dwelling on Daytona street and are trying to have it completed by the holidays.

L. Z. Burdick's workmen are now completing the interior finishing of the Christian Science church on the corner of Live Oak street and Palm-tree avenue in this city.

The workmen of Fuquay & Gheen have recently finished the new Islington Annex on Ridgewood avenue and are doing some repair work in the kitchen and rear rooms of the main building.

Contractor Jacob Espedahl has commenced work on a new garage for Elmer Oliver on Peninsula Drive, Daytona Beach. The building will be 22 by 26 feet of cement block construction and will replace the garage destroyed by fire last spring.

The Daytona Sheet Metal works has obtained a contract to re-roof the large coquina rock building on Coates street, Daytona Beach, which contains the Oyama theatre. A new composition roofing will be laid. Work will begin probably next week.

The Bond Lumber company was busy all of last week in hauling building materials to Ormond Beach for a large bungalow, 46 by 60 feet, which F. M. Dyer, of Boston, Mass., is erecting for his own winter use on the beach front, south of the Breston Inn. The bungalow will be probably the largest and finest on the beach front at Ormond.

The contract for the tile roof of the new Seabreeze school building has been let to the Daytona Sheet Metal works. The tile does not form the entire roof but merely an overhang for a decorative purpose around the edge of the roof. Dark red, Ludowici Celadon Imperial Spanish tile, which is the best roofing material manufactured, is used in the work.

A Vande Vord is building a beautiful coquina rock fire place in the H. F. Stewart home on the corner of Earl street and Ocean avenue. The fire place is being erected in the north end of the front living room.

Whipple & Edwards, of the Magnolia Novelty works, have secured the contract for a small building to be erected between the Peck Hendricks block and Curtis store, on Beach street, for F. C. Pfeiffer. Work will commence immediately.

The Thomas Oyama building on Seabreeze avenue, Daytona Beach, is about half completed and Contractor Espedahl is pushing the work as rapidly as possible. The building is 30 by 80 feet and will contain five store rooms. The construction is of brick and coquina rock.

T. Fred Brown has just added another bath room to his home in Bostwick Park. Several dormer windows have also been placed in the residence. Jacob Espedahl had charge of the improvements.

Contractor Espedahl has the foundation laid and the brick basement walls on the magnificent home of H. H. Windsor, publisher of Popular Mechanics, well under way. This home will be located in Bostwick Park and will be one of the most palatial homes in this locality. The carpenter work on the structure will be commenced in a couple of weeks.

Fuquay & Gheen are well along with the work on the Daytona Beach hotel and hope to have it completed before the end of the month. Many new rooms are in the new addition. The Daytona Sheet Metal works received the contract for the roof which is already finished. Besides the new addition both the upstairs and first floor porches have been built out toward the street several feet wider.

Under the direction of Edward Betts, supervising architect, several substantial improvements are being made to the beach residence of F. N. Conrad, in Bostwick Park. The improvements consist of a new dining room, two additional baths and several sleeping rooms. To conform with the construction of the building coquina rock will be used for the addition. The improvements will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000.

MISSING CANADIAN OFFICER

NOT A RESIDENT OF DAYTONA

H. H. Windsor, editor and publisher of Popular Mechanics magazine, and a warm friend of the News, writes, as follows from Chicago, Ill., Nov. 26th: "While reading the Montreal Star of Nov. 22, I ran across the following among hundreds of names. Odd, isn't it, how your eye seems to pick out the one place from a great mass, when you're interested."

The matter referred to was the notice in the official casualty list of the Canadian war department showing that among the wounded and missing was Quartermaster Sergeant D'Arcy Smith, Daytona, Fla.

The missing man was a brother, it seems, of Mrs. R. G. Moffatt, whose husband was employed with the Journal a year or more ago. He had never resided in this city but at the time of his enlistment, gave Daytona as his residence because Mrs. Moffatt's closest relative was then living here and could be notified in case of accident to him.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Daytona Auto Supply company will have an office for the present with A. J. Malby on Orange avenue, next to the garage, for the settlement of past business.

STATE ASSOCIATION OF AD CLUBS TO MEET IN DAYTONA JANUARY 17

ORGANIZATION FORMED AT ST. AUGUSTINE TUESDAY — ONLY FOUR DELEGATES PRESENT FROM DAYTONA.

With representatives present from DeLand, Daytona, Tampa, St. Augustine and Jacksonville, the State Association of Advertising clubs was successfully launched in St. Augustine Tuesday afternoon and is started toward being one of the most progressive organizations of the state. Many important matters were discussed and the meeting went on record as favoring an active campaign that will result in advertising clubs being formed in every city of the state.

Officers Named. Charles A. Tutewiler, of Jacksonville, was elected president, with B. R. Kessler, also of Jacksonville, as secretary. J. R. Murphy, of Palatka; Fred Wolf of Tampa; T. E. Fitzgerald, of Daytona, were elected first, second and third vice presidents respectively. S. F. Kidder, of St. Augustine, was elected treasurer, and an executive committee, composed of two members from each of the clubs was named. This committee will conduct all official affairs of the club not coming under direct charge of the president and other officers.

Daytona Wins. Palatka, DeLand and Daytona vied for honors in having the next meeting, which is to be held January 17, but Daytona won in the balloting. Representatives of Palatka were assured that the following meeting would be held in their city. During the course of the meeting many important matters were taken up covering every phase of business and advertising, the whole meeting being one of great enthusiasm and hearty interest.

The meeting endorsed the movement of county appropriations for publicity and advertising, after J. Harvey Whitney had explained the Duval county work and the need of further work along that line. President Jefferson Thomas, of the Jacksonville club, assisted greatly in the meeting and at the close gave a short but instructive talk on advertising values and work. The others attending the session also gave interesting talks and the adjournment found all deeply enthused over the work accomplished.

The St. Augustine Advertisers' club and the chamber of commerce acted as hosts at a banquet given in the chamber of commerce building at 8 o'clock and between 75 and 100 attended the reception, where good things to eat and short talks and entertainment features closed what was voted a most creditable and resultful day of work.

Executive Committee.

The executive committee, composed of two members from each club, represented, follows:

Thomas Jefferson, J. Harvey Whitney, of Jacksonville.

Jerome Waterman, Jack Mahoney, of Tampa.

A. W. Hunnicutt, V. W. Gould, of DeLand.

Charles F. Burgman, W. L. Courson, of Daytona.

Eugene Masters, M. H. Arends, of St. Augustine.

Two members each are to be selected by the Palatka and Miami clubs.

Members of the constitution and by-laws committee are: M. H. Jennings, of Jacksonville; T. E. Fitzgerald, of Daytona; S. T. Kidder, of St. Augustine; Oscar Conklin, of Miami; M. P. Walsh, of Palatka.

The clubs represented in the state association are Jacksonville, St. Augustine, Daytona, Tampa, Palatka, DeLand and Miami.

Although the Daytona Advertisers' club was entitled to seven delegates but four were present from this city. Those who attended from here were C. F. Burgman, W. L. Courson, Chas. E. Gardiner and T. E. Fitzgerald.

HAD ROUGH AUTOMOBILE TRIP FROM COUNTY SEAT

Jas. H. Moffett, a "Knitwear" salesman, invited Geo. W. Balch, manager, and E. H. Brown and E. T. Paul, employees of the Anthony store and also J. W. Faulkner to accompany him by automobile to Orlando, as his guests, the trip being made in Wade H. Reed's Hudson car. They made the trip to Orlando by way of Osteen, leaving this city Sunday morning and finding that road in miserable condition, they concluded to return by way of the DeLand-New Smyrna road which they were told was all right. Leaving DeLand at about 8:00 o'clock Sunday evening, they soon encountered worse road by far than they had found on the Osteen route. There were many deep holes and the mud was more than half deep in lots of places. Time and again they were obliged to jack and again they were obliged to travel by a man and mules to pull the car out, some of the party walking several miles to get the man with the mules. They reached here at between 10:00 and 11:00 o'clock Monday morning, tired and sleepy and covered with mud. Very naturally they are strong in their denunciation of the miserable condition of the roads which people are obliged to travel while the hard surfacing of the principal highways is in progress.

ALLIGATORS BEING KILLED ON TOMOKA

SO SAYS E. J. MILLS WHO IS ENGAGED IN BUILDING ANOTHER BOAT FOR CHARTER PURPOSES.

E. J. Mills is engaged in building another boat along the same general lines as the Home Run, but somewhat larger, to be used, like the Home Run, for charter purposes.

The new craft will be 38 feet in length and 9 foot beam. It will be of light draft and have a capacity of from 25 to 30 passengers. Provision will be made, as on the Home Run, for supplying fish dinners and other appetizing luncheons.

Mr. Mills makes a specialty of the Tomoka river trip not only because of the beautiful scenery but also on account of the alligators to be seen on that water course. These saurians form a great attraction to people just from the north, but Mr. Mills says that they are being ruthlessly destroyed. This destruction of the alligators should not be permitted. Some action should be taken for their preservation and would probably meet with general approval and support.

LAND DEVELOPER HERE ON A VISIT

E. A. Simpson, of Hartford, Conn., of the firm of Simpson and Pope, owners of Ortona, arrived this week with his family and chauffeur, having enjoyed a pleasant trip en route via steamer and automobile.
"I have never been in Florida as early as November before, and am very much surprised to find so many tourists here at this time of the year," said Mr. Simpson.
"Also I am delighted with the fine weather and beautiful flowers, especially poinsettias that this part of the state appears to have quantities of each year."
"I understand there has been much rain within the last month, but it certainly must have a good effect, nevertheless."
"It is not to be wondered at why northern visitors come to Daytona year after year in search of health and pleasure. It is my desire to be able to stay in Ortona six of every twelve months and watch our infant townsite develop into a suburb of Daytona, worthy of its name. This has been the privilege of Mr. Pope heretofore, but next year I hope to come to Florida by November 1st, and enjoy the trip by automobile all the way from Hartford, possibly, in company with Mr. Schoville, who looks forward to this journey with a lot of pleasure."

DRAINAGE MEETING AGAIN POSTPONED

IMPERFECT PROXIES CAUSE OF THE SECEOND POSTPONEMENT —LACKED BUT LITTLE OF THE REQUIRED ACREAGE.

The meeting of the members of the Halifax Drainage district, which has been adjourned to 10:00 a. m., Wednesday, at the city hall, was more largely attended than the first meeting but there was still not enough acreage represented to elect the supervisors to carry out the drainage plan. This was due to the fact that many of the proxies were not properly made out and to give time to remedy this defect the meeting was again postponed for two weeks and be held at 10:00 o'clock Wednesday morning, December 13th, at the city hall. The acreage represented Wednesday was only 191 short of the required. The importance of this drainage project to the territory included can scarcely be overestimated and it is to be hoped that all land owners interested will make it a point to do all they can to expedite the work.

MARSHALL PARK BEING GRADED AND BEAUTIFIED

Marshall Park is the scene of many improvements just now. W. W. Marshall has a force of men at work under the direction of the Royal Art Floral company, grading and beautifying a number of his lots. T. R. Simpson, who owns a home in Marshall Park is doing likewise, and other property owners in that attractive subdivision have signified their intention of improving and decorating their premises with shrubbery.

George Munson and family, of Grand Rapids, Mich., have rented for the season the Albert Shanks house, 409 South Palmetto avenue. The rental was made through the agency of N. Y. Boris.

PIPE ORGAN ARRIVES FOR M. E. CHURCH

$3,500 ESTEY PIPE ORGAN NOW BEING INSTALLED IN THE DAY-TONA BEACH METHODIST CHURCH.

The new $3,500 Estey pipe organ, which was ordered several months ago by the board of trustees of the Daytona Beach M. E. church, arrived from Brattleboro, Vt., on Thursday of last week, and is now being erected in the church building on the corner of Seabreeze avenue and Peninsula Drive, under the supervision of Fugazy and Green.

The parts of the large instrument came in nine boxes and 17 crates and weighed approximately 7,000 pounds, filling an entire freight car. The organ has been ordered for some time, but no shipment was made until three weeks ago because of a shortage in material, which hindered work at the Estey factory in Brattleboro, Vt.

In order to make room for the pipe organ, the contractors have built out the choir loft several feet on the rostrum. This extension will allow a sufficient space for 16 people who will compose the choir. The pipes will fill the 18-foot width of the loft and are painted green and gold, with a background of pearl gray. The manuals, stops and pedals will be placed on the east side of the loft. A new system of indirect lighting is also being installed at present. The old way of lighting has always caused discomfort to those attending the evening meetings and the change for the better is sure to meet favor.

Rev. John Treadwell, pastor of the church, looks forward to many services during the coming season when the building, which seats 700 people, will be inadequate. Such crowds came to some of last year's services and with the new improvements, it is thought that another addition must soon be made to the church building.

CHENEY, OF THE BROOKLYN TEAM, SPENDING WINTER HERE
Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cheney, arrived last week from their northern home and have taken apartments in the Gushee house on Orange avenue. This is their first winter in Daytona Beach.

Larry Cheney is one of the star-wart pitchers of the Brooklyn National League base ball team, which has held its spring training camp at Ebbetts' Field in Seabreeze for March of the last two years. He was a participant in the World's Series of last October and received with the others, his generous share of the players' money.

Mr. Cheney makes the fourth member of the Brooklyn team who has brought his family south to spend the coming winter on the Peninsula. The players have not yet received their instructions as to the spring training of 1917.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Dunn returned early in the week from a combined business and pleasure trip to Baltimore, Md., of several weeks duration and are now at their cozy home on the corner of Ocean avenue and Duke street.

DAYTONA BEACH

Mrs. Emily Reynolds, of Oneonta, N. Y., will arrive tomorrow to occupy one of the Bleekman apartments on Halifax avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Robertson and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gardner, of Middleville, Mich., arrived Friday to spend the winter at the Bleekman apartment house on Peninsula Drive.

J. Chambers, of Kentucky, arrived Monday to spend the season and has taken apartments at the Ohio house. Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Priest, friends from Port Orange, visited Mr. Chambers, Tuesday afternoon.

W. H. Courtney has recently moved from his old office in the Oyama block to the I. W. Phillips building across from the Bunch block on Seabreeze avenue. This new location is very excellent for a real estate office.

J. J. Curley, of Rockaway Beach, L. I., N. Y., has rented the cozy bungalow in the rear of the old Goodall mansion, which is owned by Thos. Herbert Smith, for the winter months. They are friends of James Keenan and will be here on the first of December. The transaction was made through the agency of J. E. D. Graves.

R. S. Hook, a gentleman who has spent many winters in Daytona Beach, arrived last Sunday from a summer spent near Boston, Mass., and is now pleasantly located at the Branch house on Seabreeze avenue. Mr. Hook made the trip south by water and was accompanied by two friends, A. Dion and C. P. Crawshaw, of Worcester, Mass., who are here for their first season.

SEABREEZE

The friends of Carl Burgman will be grieved to hear that he is ill at his home on Ocean boulevard.

Mrs. E. S. Palmer and children, of Jackson, Mich., have rented Mrs. Ruby's cottage on Ora street for the winter months.

Julius Breckwoldt, of Dodeville, N. Y., who purchased several months ago the attractive property of Mrs. Abeling, on the river front and North Halifax avenue, will arrive on the second of December to spend the winter.

F. S. Rupert, of Bloomington, Ill., has rented the house owned by Mrs. Ott, on the river front and North Halifax avenue, through the agency of J. E. D. Graves. He will arrive with his family on January 1st, to spend the season.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Pierson and daughter, who have been the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Pierson on Halifax avenue, north, have moved to their home on Ocean boulevard, the Pennwood, which they have leased for the winter.

GENERAL BUSINESS AT COUNCIL MEETING

The Daytona Beach council transacted a good deal of interesting business at the call meeting held last Saturday night.

Chicken permits were granted to W. R. Phillips, Robert S. Holmes, Smith G. Young, Geo. H. Bowen and J. E. Abernethy. J. E. Coleman received a chicken permit with restrictions.

Bills for day labor were approved and the Beach Transfer company's bill of $42.75 was paid. Marshal Creech received his salary for the past month.

Chairman Bleekman was made a committee to procure seats which will be placed on the vacant lots along Seabreeze avenue.

It was reported that the road fill on Lenox avenue was never completed and that certain sidewalks in the town are sinking because of insufficient sand basing.

The clerk read the reports of the marshal and treasurer.

Marshal J. E. Creech will receive from November 1 to April 1, $25 a month for his services as night watchman, in addition to a like sum for his work as marshal, as the council took action to this effect.

Councilman Oliver reported that he will enforce the lighting of autos by one-half hour after sun down.

After talking over informally the affairs of the meeting, the council adjourned.

SEINERS CAPTURE RUSSIAN STURGEON

Wm. Oehler, the well-known Daytona Beach seiner, and two other men captured a 50-pound Russian sturgeon in their net, while fishing last Friday night in the ocean above Ormond.

After bringing in many fine hauls of mixed bottom fish such as whiting and mullet, aggregating several hundred pounds, the men caught the large fish in the seine, which was damaged by the fierce struggles of the strange fish.

At first, the name of the fish was not known, as such a sea inhabitant had never been seen by any of the beach residents. With the aid of textbooks, however, it was finally proved that the fish was a Russian sturgeon. This kind of fish is very highly prized for its delicious meat and all doubt of its species was removed when part of the fish was cooked and eaten.

The skin of the fish was saved and will be mounted. It will probably be put on display in the store of the Ocean Fish company, in the Oyama block.

CAMP-FIRE GIRLS MEET LAST NIGHT AT UPSON HOME

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Upson entertained the peninsula camp-fire girls last evening at their attractive home on East street. Mrs. Emma Freeman assisted in making the time pleasant.

Pop corn and marshmallows were roasted in the fire place and games of various kinds were played during the course of the evening. The honor prizes were distributed and at the end of the party a salad course with hot chocolate was served to the young people, after which all departed for their respective homes.

**Wanted—To buy a second-hand motor boat. Address, R. L. Graham, Lima, Ohio.

Attorney Harry A. Horn spent Tuesday at Dupont on business of a legal nature.

Mrs. Alice Gray and Mrs. Leete recently returned to the beach from their northern homes and have rented the Sea Cliff cottage on Ocean avenue for the winter.

Among those who arrived Monday to spend the winter are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Smith, of Nicholasville, Ky., who are located at the Ohio.

TIDE AND WEATHER

Low Tide Today - 6:37
Low Tide Tomorrow - 6:59

FOR FLORIDA: Fair tonight and Saturday; gentle to moderate north and northeast winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

There were light rains during the last 24 hours on the North Atlantic Coast, and over east portions of Carolina and Georgia. Elsewhere, over the country, the weather was generally fair.

Under the influence of higher pressure cooler weather prevails over most of the Atlantic and East Gulf States, frost being reported from extreme northwest Florida with about freezing temperature southward to north Alabama. West of the Mississippi River the weather is somewhat warmer, except over the northwestern Rocky Mountain States, where it is cooler. The winds are mostly northerly on the lower coasts, except variable over the Florida peninsula. Conditions favor continued fair weather over this section tonight and Saturday.

AGED VISITOR DIED FROM CEREBRAL HEMORRHAGE

Samuel Tappin, of Cincinnati, Ohio, a retired contractor, died Tuesday morning at 10:00 o'clock at a local hotel, death resulting from cerebral hemorrhage. The deceased had reached the advanced age of 84 years. Mr. Tappin was a prominent resident of Cincinnati and prominent also in the Masonic fraternity, being a Scottish Rite Mason. He was a friend of Dr. P. R. Bennett, winter resident of this city. The remains were forwarded Wednesday morning to Cincinnati, for interment in Spring Grove cemetery, funeral services being held in Spring Grove chapel. Mrs. Tappin and her daughter, Mrs. Ernest Dub, accompanied the remains north but will return to Daytona and spend the winter.

ANNUAL MEMORIAL SERVICES OF ELKS NEXT SUNDAY NIGHT

Following an established custom of this great fraternal order, Daytona Lodge, No. 1141, B. P. O. Elks will next Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock hold annual memorial services for departed members. The ceremony as usual, will be conducted in the New Daytona theatre, which, on former occasions, has been filled to overflowing with interested spectators. A new arrangement of the seats has considerably increased the capacity of the theatre, but it is possible that even with this additional room it will be difficult to accommodate the crowd and all desiring seats should be at the theatre early.

Dr. Charles Frederick Goss, an eminent divine of Cincinnati, Ohio, will deliver the address. Dr. Goss is filling the pulpit of the Tourist church at Seabreeze while spending the winter here as for several past seasons.

General J. C. R. Foster, who is widely known through his long and prominent association with the state militia, will deliver the eulogy.

The roll of departed members of the local lodge includes the following: August A. Schmidt, S. B. Owen, Jas. H. Allen, Geo. H. Matthews, J. W. Booth, D. Sheppard Simons, John E. Price, Conrad Studebort, S. D. Gammell, J. B. Conrad, Geo. F. Smith, H. F. Stewart, Charles G. Burgoyne, T. Eugene Coster, Rocco Saracina and Edward F. Oates.

Delegates Report Delightful Visit to City of Miami

(By Mrs. Roland E. Stevens.)

As the first meeting of the Federation of Women's clubs was to be held on Tuesday evening November 21st, the delegates needed not arrive at least by the morning of that day, for what woman would miss one item of a convention? The Miami coach, with the addition of two more at New Smyrna, for the cross-state members, all filled to the utmost capacity, bumped and jolted merrily on to the "Magic City." The Over-Sea-Limited side-tracked the convention somewhere about two in the morning and left as all sleeping peacefully until a reasonable hour. Evidently the Miami ladies did not expect the guests to be quite so previous in arriving for not one of the scheduled Kelly skirts and yellow ties did we see to greet our advent. A bit disappointed, yet nothing daunted the delegates one by one went their way to the Hialeah Hall, the Federation headquarters.

The day was given up to committee meetings on the part of the state officers. The delegates and visitors registered at the Woman's club and received badges of green and yellow, the Federation colors. After this was done the guests spent the remaining hours visiting the shops and points of interest in the vicinity.

The first meeting of the Federation was held in the White Temple, the M. E. church, at eight o'clock Tuesday evening, our State President, Mrs. W. S. Jennings, and the president of the hostess club, Mrs. A. Leight Monroe, presiding. After the formal opening of the convention, followed our national song and the address of welcome. After Mrs. Monroe's delightful welcome in behalf of the hostess club, came the cordial welcome, even though done by the "official welcome" (new officer created at Miami) in behalf of the mayor. It seems the proper thing to have addresses made by proxy in that city, for the Chamber of Commerce also sent a substitute. The welcomes were some the less hearty and sincere. Mrs. Edgar Lewis responded for the Federation.

The evening was devoted to several "Short Talks" by national federation officers and reports by the state officers, of the Thirtieth Biennial held in New York last summer. Impaired with charming bits of music. These talks made one realize the power for good and uplift that the entire federation was exerting, and brought home the realization that we were an integral part of this great whole.

After adjournment came the annual reception tendered by the Hostess club, held at Hialeah hotel. This was a gala occasion, elegant gowns, an endless receiving line, excellent music and, what is most essential in all ladies' gatherings, much talking, chiefly all at the same time. Needless to say this was a most successful affair, and all were loath to depart even though the hours were among the wee ones' numbers.

Wednesday, and the meeting was on in dead earnest. After the report of the credentials committee, roll call and such necessary items came the reports of the state officers and vice-presidents, each with their own items of interest to the convention. This first meeting was held in the Woman's club, but it was soon seen to be inadequate, therefore it was voted to hold down the day meetings in the Presbyterian church next door. This also proved to be well not just what was desired, therefore it was decided to hold all meetings at the White Temple.

The afternoon session was devoted to a selection of a state song for the federation and reports of the department. The old familiar and well-loved song of "Way Down Upon the Suwannee River," was selected for our song.

The evening sessions were given to addresses by people of note and to music and entertainment. Wednesday evening proved to be quite a treat.

Dr. Mary B. Jewett spoke on Woman's Suffrage and if there had been any laggards in the cause before, rest assured there are none now. Senator Duncan U. Fletcher gave an address on his trip to Buenos Aires and the work of the International High Commission. This was most interesting and instructive and we were all a bit disappointed when he discovered that his time was limited and he had to curtail his account of the return journey. Newell L. Sims of the U. of F., gave an excellent address upon Civil Service Reform and woman's part in it. Between these addresses were beautiful musical selections. Among these Mrs. Gretta Challen Berg of Jacksonville and Miss Lily Vilars Hall were especially good. The former a beautiful lyric soprano, the latter a violinist of genius.

After the addresses were over and the last musical number finished a gentleman in the audience arose and asked if he might speak. A veritable "Voice from the wilderness" for no one had ever seen or heard of him before. He was inspired, therefore, spoke. There seemed to be two ladies who were of his party and were very desirous of curtailing his oration, but he went on regardless. First he said he was a Georgia farmer and was visiting Miami at that time and had just dropped in to enjoy the evening's entertainment. His tribute to our Senator Fletcher was beautiful. He said the farmers felt he had done more to obtain favorable legislation in their behalf than any man in the senate, and that whenever we desired him no longer please to give him to Georgia, for they would always desire his services. He also spoke of Mrs. Berg and her wonderful voice. In fact this stranger expressed most fully just the sentiment of the entire audience, though we had not the courage to get up and say it as he did.

Thursday, The Royal Palm Park day. All excitement, bustle and preparing for departure. By 8:30 no less than one hundred and fifty cars had started on their way to the park. Dame Nature could not have been more favorable for more perfect weather could not be imagined. The roads were perfect. Miami and in fact, Dade county, is noted for the good roads. The Ingraham highway is beautiful with trees and shrubs planted along the road-way for many miles. At Larkins we saw the only Teachers' college in the state, also a public school that would have been a credit to any city. The ride on the newly made road out into the Everglades was most interesting, and novel. About ten thirty we arrived at the park. This park is the only state park owned by any state federation in the United States, and we are consequently very proud of our distinction. Ours was

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Foote, Jr., and little daughter, Mary Jane, returned home Tuesday after a week's pleasant visit with Mrs. Foote's mother, Mrs. W. C. Cannon, at Deland.

Miss Kathryn Thorp returned Tuesday from Miami where she had been attending the annual convention of the Florida Federation of Women's clubs in session in that city last week.

Mrs. Edward S. Marrenner, of Charles City, Iowa, arrived Monday and joined Mr. Marrenner's mother, Mrs. Anna M. Marrenner, who had been here for some time with Capt. and Mrs. C. B. Shouse at their home on South Ridgewood avenue.

Mrs. L. N. Hexter and small son, Pope Hexter, returned Sunday from West Palm Beach, and are again with Mrs. Hexter's brother, F. W. Pope, and family for a visit of a week or ten days before leaving for their home in Pittsburg, Penn.

Mrs. A. Milligan, Mrs. Roland E. Stevens and Miss Lee Bowers, who attended the meeting in Miami last week of the Florida State Federation of Women's clubs, and remained after the conclusion of the convention, returned home Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Murray R. Aultman, of Jacksonville, is the guest of Mrs. Harry C. Thompson, at her home on Orange avenue. Mrs. Aultman was formerly a resident of Daytona and has many friends here who welcome her. A number of social affairs have been given in honor of Mrs. Aultman.

Mrs. M. L. Stanley, Mrs. Nathaniel C. Sears and Mrs. Henry Mitchell, returned last Saturday from Miami where they have been attending the annual convention of the Florida Federation of Women's clubs. Mrs. S. R. Capen, of Jacksonville, state chairman of civil service reform, also came to Daytona Saturday and was a guest at the Morgan hotel until the forepart of this week.

only made possible by the untiring efforts of our beloved state president, Mrs. W. S. Jennings. Through her the state legislature gave a grant of $10 acres what was formerly known as Paradise Key, the first islet in the Everglades, provided a like amount could be obtained as an endowment. Mrs. Flazier gave the necessary endowment of land, and thus we have the park. It is to be kept as nearly in its original condition as possible and to be made a place to conserve the rare tropical plants and migratory birds. Later it is hoped to make the endowment land botanical gardens, the whole a place of delight and invaluable for students of nature for at this place are found many rare species of plant life, thought extinct and here only is there a place reserved for conserving all tropical plant life native to America.

Immediately upon our arrival were the dedicatory exercises for the Royal Palm State park and the Ingraham highway. The Homestead Women's club, numbering only twenty-five, served a complimentary dinner to the officers and delegates. Then followed an inspection of the park, guides personally conducting the tour.

The evening session was given over to music and an evening with Shakespeare's Women, most beautifully given by Mrs. Wm. Vogleson Little.

Friday was devoted to the completion of the department and club reports. These latter were most interesting and inspiring, especially the ones from the smaller clubs and towns. It brought out most forcibly the great work for the uplift and benefit of the home towns done by these women. The last evening was spent quite like its predecessors, with talks given by people of note and beautiful musical selections.

Much gratitude and thanks is due to the Hostess club and the people of Miami, for making successful the federation's history. Not one item that would add to the comfort and pleasure of the guests was omitted. Miami, the Magic City, was most certainly an ideal hostess and the guests all departed most enthusiastic, both in club work and in the praise of this most progressive little city.

CALIFORNIA HAS EYES ON FLORIDA ROADS

PRESS URGING IMPORTANCE OF ROAD IMPROVEMENT TO KEEP PACE WITH THAT IN PROGRESS
IN THIS STATE.

C. F. Reifsnider, writing the Gazette-News from Port Orange for renewal of subscription, enclosed a clipping from the Los Angeles Examiner which is appended. Of this article, Mr. Reifsnider said: "It listens good for Florida and shows that California has her eyes on the 'Flowery State,' all the time." The clipping follows:

Palm lined lanes of Florida, recently converted from narrow paths into broad state and county highways, threatens the supremacy of Southern California as a touring paradise de luxe.

Officials of the Automobile club of Southern California, quoting from facts recently published throughout the East, yesterday pointed out that Florida is now "up on her toes" and has made good roads a slogan which has swept the state from one end to another.

"There have been stretches of good roads, but separated by links which were anything but a joy to motorists," says one Eastern publication, referring to Florida. "Now this is rapidly changing. County after county has voted road bonds by the million dollars, and the state is being crossed in all directions by paved highways on which a motorist can do his 200 miles a day or more in comfort.

"The states leading north and north-west are also providing state roads which rival those in the north, and the vast procession of cars which passed into Florida the past winter carried license signs of probably every state in the union.

"Already over $12,000,000 (in a restricted area) has been appropriated. No other state affords so many miles of motor highway bordering ocean, gulf, rivers and lakes.

"Automobile club officials state that the seriousness of the necessity of passing the state highway bonds in California cannot be overestimated.

"Before the roads in one county of Virginia had been improved, the largest amount of farm and forest products shipped out of that county in any one year was 49,000 tons. In 1909 the amount of dairy products shipped was 115,000 pounds. During that year forty miles of road were improved at an expense of $100,000.

"In 1911, two years after the improvement, 71,000 tons of farm and forest products and 273,000 pounds of dairy products were shipped. The increase was 45 and 140 per cent, respectively.

"The increase in wheat shipments was 59 per cent, in tobacco 31 per cent and other products shipments increased 48 per cent over the best records made before the roads were improved.

"It was found by the Virginia Highway commission that farmers were saved $41,500 in marketing 65,000 tons of products.

"In California, through the agricultural districts, the value of good roads annually to ranchers and dairymen has been estimated by experts at many millions of dollars. But over and above this, the state profits so enormously by the coming of thousands of visiting motorists every year that the figures seem almost unbelievable.

"Representatives of the Automobile club and those in charge of the touring information bureaus, estimate the annual expenditures of motoring visitors in California at approximately $37,000,000."

LAW MAKERS' VISIT POSTPONED UNTIL FEB'ARY OR MARCH

TRIP DOWN THE EAST COAST WAS SCHEDULED FOR DECEMBER BUT PROGRAM HAS BEEN CHANGED.

It now seems very probable that the contemplated visit on the 9th of December to Daytona of many of the members of the lower house of the Florida legislature will be postponed until some time the latter part of February or the forepart of March.

Upon the invitation of W. H. Marshall, the representative from Broward county, the solons had intended to inspect the Everglades drainage work on the 10th of December, and through the efforts of Representative David Sholtz, of Volusia county the party had agreed to spend one day in this city, elaborate preparations having been made by the Commercial club for the entertainment of the distinguished visitors.

It seems, however, that Mr. Marshall has concluded that it would be much better to postpone the visit of the law makers until a later date, so that they could see the results of the farming of the Everglades. Mr. Marshall is of the opinion that the middle of December would find the members of the legislature too busy to leave their business and homes, it being the season of the year when Christmas men are preparing for the Christmas rush. Mr. Marshall has sent a letter to all those who signified their intention of visiting the East Coast and finds that a later time will be much more agreeable to them.

WINTER YACHTS ARRIVE EACH DAY AT YACHT CLUB

GRACEFUL AND BEAUTIFUL
BOATS STOP AT YACHT CLUB
DOCK AFTER TRIP TO SOUTH
FROM NORTHERN WATERS.

Many large and beautiful yachts have tied up at the dock of the Halifax River Yacht club during the last week. The greater number of them have been on their way to Miami or points south of here, coming from the vicinity of New York City.

The 77-foot Schmucke yacht, Owassa, of New York, was tied up this morning. It has a 19-foot beam and in spite of its size draws only three and a half feet of water. The motive power is furnished by two 20th Century engines. The boat is furnished in the very highest order. The trip from New York was made in slightly more than three weeks, the Schmucke party coming aboard at Charleston for the remainder of the trip. The yacht was taken to Root's boat yard, Wednesday and hauled up in dry dock to make whatever repairs might be necessary. During the winter the yacht will be used for cruising parties up and down the East Coast.

The Franklin, owned by James Laughlin III, of Orlando, was brought down Wednesday morning from the McCoy basin where it has been during the summer and is now awaiting charter. It is a 65-foot house boat yacht, with ample apartments for large cruising parties.

Dr. J. H. Pierson has brought his 45-foot yacht down from the Root docks and is now engaged in painting and furnishing it in readiness for trips later in the winter. This craft came originally from Palm Beach and was completely rebuilt during the summer by Miles Pessick.

Other boats which have touched at the yacht club during the week are the Miss Ann H. of Jacksonville, The Matwehu, of New York, owned by Anton Hilman, of Terra Haute, Ind., and several other smaller craft.

HARMONY CAFE OPENING HELD WEDNESDAY EVE.

BEAUTIFUL NEW RESTAURANT
ON MAGNOLIA AVENUE OPEN-ED TO PUBLIC WEDNESDAY—
FREE LUNCH SERVED.

Many were present Wednesday night at the opening of the new Harmony Cafe on 9 Magnolia avenue. A free lunch was served to all visitors to the $11,000 establishment which is operated by A. E. Samra.

The furnishings arrived during the past two weeks, from a well-known Chicago firm and embody all of the latest innovations in their line.

The interior decorations of the new cafe are attractive and beautiful. Nearly all of the furniture has the natural wood grain. The floor is spread with soft-shaded rugs and on the walls are several landscapes which make a harmonious picture with the rest of the room.

The new restaurant has been established with the thought in mind to make a place where an economical meal may be obtained as well as a sumptuous dinner. For this purpose a part of the large building has been set aside for a lunch counter, where twelve seats are arranged. In the main dining room there are four tables where two may be seated and 16 tables for four. On the west side in the rear are four small private rooms, each of which will accommodate four. Across the room are three larger private compartments for eight people.

With the new furnishings, everything gives a very neat and clean appearance to the visitor. One of the features of the place is that only white service will be employed.

In the kitchen things are arranged so that sanitation is assured, combined, however, with rapid service.

The management is probably correct in its belief that the new establishment is one of the finest in the south. Surely few places in the larger cities will excel the Harmony cafe in beauty of appointment.

D. H. Rogers and daughter, Miss Esther Rogers, of Alfred, N. Y., arrived Sunday and are with Mr. Rogers' brother, D. D. Rogers, and Dr. M. Josie Rogers at their home on North Beach street. Mr. Rogers and daughter toured south in their car, making a leisurely and enjoyable trip. They expect to be here through the season or longer. Mr. Rogers knew Daytona in its early years, living here at that time with his parents and other members of the family.

and a visit in New York state in company with Mr. Bartlett.

The deceased was one of the early settlers, having been a resident of this city and the peninsula for about 33 years, coming to Florida from Portsmouth, Ohio, although she was born in Berlin, N. Y.

Mrs. Bartlett is survived by her husband and one brother, E. W. Greene, of this city. She is also survived by an aunt, Mrs. R. G. Marley, of St. Augustine, and several cousins, one of whom, Mrs. Wm. G. White, of Springfield, Ohio, came to Daytona Thursday because of Mrs. Bartlett's critical condition. Mrs. Marley will also be here for the funeral.

These relatives, and especially the bereaved husband and brother will have the sincere sympathy of many friends.

special car service for dances and other occasions.

During the suspension of the service, the cars have been overhauled and placed in excellent condition for the winter and much work also has been done upon the tracks which will be paved with asphalt bricks, much of which material is now upon the

Agriculture in Syria

Syrian Landscape.

THAT Syria has been unable to feed its own Christian population and at the same time satisfy the military authorities' extraordinary demands for supplies is not surprising to those familiar with the primitive agricultural methods of the Holy Land. Concerning the manner in which crops are raised in this section of the near East, where 50,000 people are reported to have perished already, John D. Whiting presents this graphic picture in a communication to the National Geographic society:

In the mountain districts the farm land is usually owned by peasant proprietors, each man's property being composed of various small pieces scattered about near the village in which he lives. The raising of olives, grapes and many other fruits is the leading occupation, but almost every farmer grows some grain.

Down on the plains larger fields exist and cereals are largely planted. The land of a given village is frequently owned in common by the villagers and a division of it takes place every alternate year, and is so arranged that every man gets portions of the good as well as of the less desirable land.

Fences, in the western sense of the word, are unknown. In the mountainous country lands are inclosed by loose stone walls, still called by the ancient Hebrew name "jedar," and on the plains by thorn hedges. When the open fields are owned by individuals, the boundary lines are indicated by deep furrows, in which at intervals stones are laid as landmarks. It is therefore, readily seen how easily these boundaries could be changed by an avaricious neighbor, undeterred by the Moslem warning, "Cursed be he that removeth his neighbor's landmark."

Crude Methods of Farming.
Rain begins to fall about November (average annual rainfall for 50 years about 20 inches), after a rainless summer, and as soon as the ground is well moistened the fellah starts planting the winter cereals—wheat, barley, lentils, beans, etc. The plow is a crude affair, made of oak, the bent parts being natural curves held together with iron bands; these bands and a small plowshare, which only scratches the ground a few inches deep, are the only metal parts.

Oxen are the favorite animals for yoking to a plow. Cows and donkeys are employed by the poorer people. Horses, mules and camels (the last named only along the Mediterranean coast) are harnessed singly to plows, while sometimes one sees an ox and a camel yoked together.

The fellah sows the grain on the bare ground and then plows it in. In rocky ground man or woman follows with a stick to loosen the earth that may have been skipped by the plow. The soil is not fertilized. The disintegration of the underlying limestone feeds the soil, so that for thousands of years it has continued yielding crops. The manure and rubbish, instead of being utilized, are allowed to accumulate in heaps outside the villages until they surround it like small mountains.

After the winter crops have all been planted the vineyards and olive groves are plowed a couple of times and also the fields reserved for the summer planting, these latter crops are not put into the ground until the rains have entirely ceased.

Harvest Time Scenes.
During harvest time the fields are lively and picturesque; the entire family has a part in the work, the small children playing about among the sheaves and even the babies are brought into the fields. A large toothed sickle is employed by the reapers when the grain is long, but if short a smaller one is used, the edge being quite dull; so that it does not cut but simply uproots the grain.

Destitute women and girls are allowed to follow the reapers and glean the fallen ears, which they tie into neat little bundles, dropping them on the ground as they go along, and these they gather up every evening and beat out the grain with a stick, just as Ruth did of old in the fields of Bethlehem. During the reaping period what the Bible calls "parched corn," is made in almost every field. Some wheat not fully ripe is cut down and set on fire, the straw only being consumed. The roasted heads are rubbed between the hands and the chaff winnowed out in the wind. Without further preparation, this roasted wheat forms one of the common articles of diet of the reapers. Undoubtedly such was the parched corn which Boaz gave to Ruth.

Threshing by the primitive methods employed is the most tiresome task of all the fellah's round of toil. In many places it is done entirely by treading out beneath the feet of the animals which are tied together abreast and driven round and round over the spread-out grain. The mules and horses are provided with flat sheet-iron shoes for all kinds of work, and the cattle, just as the threshing season begins, are specially shod.

As soon as the grapes, figs and other fruits begin ripening the fellah, with his entire family, moves out of the village into the vineyard. The grape season is looked forward to as the best part of the year, and at this time the natives live for the most part on fruits and bread. Jokingly the fellahs say that they get so fat from eating grapes that their fezzes burst.

Olives are harvested in the fall, but by a method so injurious to the trees that they yield a full crop but once in two years. Instead of picking them by hand, for time is not money with these easy-going people, they beat the trees with sticks to knock off the fruit, which at the same time results in destroying the tender shoots which should bear the next year's fruit. The olives when salted or pickled in brine are valued food, for a peasant can make a meal of only bread and olives, with perhaps the addition of a raw onion.

Sheep as well as goats are milked by the women, and the milk turned into cheese and butter. Butter is made in a goat skin like those used for carrying water. This is only half filled with milk which has previously been allowed to sour. The skin is blown full of air, the opening tied up, and it is hung on a tripod of sticks and shaken back and forth by one or two women until the butter is formed.

Russian Business Methods.
Illustrating Russian deliberation in business affairs, R. W. Child in Everybody's says that an American business man went to Petrograd to sell war goods which were badly needed. Instead of orders he received invitations to dinner, first from one high official, then another. After a week of this he said to the bureaucrat whose word was final, "Look here, this may be the Russian way; I will indulge in it if you wish, but the American way is to charge the cost of production and sales to the price. My expenses are large. Each day from now on I will add these charges to the price." He was as good as his word, and charged $400 a day extra till the negotiations were completed, ten days later, when he got his contract.

Paradise for Birds.
Conyers Manor, the 2,500-acre farm of E. C. Converse near Greenwich, Conn., is looking its best these days, and it is expected that the yield of peaches will be fully 8,000 baskets. The apple orchards are in the same thrifty condition, while the acres of strawberry beds, raspberry and current bushes are loaded with fruit.

Much work is being done on the estate to encourage bird life. In this connection the lake is being prepared so that water fowl will be safe, and a large number of snapping turtles, weighing from five to thirty pounds each, have been caught. This work will be continued until the lake is practically free of enemies of the water fowl.

Her Mistake.
Edith—Betty is such a talker I positively couldn't get a word in edgewise.

Ethel—Oh, that's because you let her get the first start.—Boston Transcript.

Reducing the Effort.
"Is your boy Josh a student of efficiency and conservation of energy and that sort of thing?"
"Yes," replied Farmer Cornstossel; "he's learnin' to roll a cigarette with one hand."

Don't You Like Steam

MOST everybody does and most everybody would like to have steam heat if it wasn't so much trouble and didn't cost so much to operate. One of the features that makes steam heat so popular is that the heat circulates and warms the room thoroughly and evenly. It isn't a local heat and there are no "cold spots."

MORE people would have steam heat if we had continuous cold weather—but we don't. It's warm one day and then cold for two or three days and it's almost impossible to regulate the fire to suit the weather and still be comfortable.

Gasteam Radiators

give you steam heat when and where you want it at less cost than coal and with no more trouble than striking a match. You can heat one room or the entire house, and can keep your home comfortable in every kind of weather at a minimum cost of fuel. Each radiator is independent. An automatic regular controls the gas and turns it down when your room is heated, giving you maximum amount of heat for minimum consumption of fuel.

GASTEAM Radiators cost less to install and less to operate than a coal burning system and are, in every way, more satisfactory. Our Heating Engineer will be glad to give you an estimate of the cost to install GASTEAM RADIATORS in our home.

A Misapprehension

By WILLIAM CHANDLER

Being delayed in the town of Acland, where I had gone on business, on account of the absence of the man I had gone there to see, I asked the clerk of the hotel where I stopped if there was a free library in the place. He directed me to one of the most attractive little buildings I ever saw, in the center of a grove. I went there and nosed over the fiction shelves for a while and finally took down a novel.

On turning the leaves a bit of paper flitted to the floor. I picked it up and, seeing some words written on it in pencil, read them:

Ten years today since Frank left us, and I am no more reconciled to his absence than the day after his departure. Oh, the long, long, weary day! ALICE.

Now, there was something in this that fitted me. My name is Frank Tisdale. Twelve years before I had accepted a position in a commission house in Hongkong and gone out there to make my fortune. I returned on a visit after eight years' sojourn in China and never went back. I was twenty years old when I left home, and among the girls to whom I said good-bye was one Alice Ringold. But I was not aware that I was any more to her than any other young man.

I took the book and the paper to the librarian, telling her that I had found the one in the other. She said that returned books were apt to have a variety of articles in them, usually put there in lieu of a book mark. I asked her if such articles were returned, and her reply was, "Sometimes." I requested that if she returned the paper I had left with her to the person who had written it she would let me know. I left with her a postage stamp and my address.

Not very long after my return to my home I received a letter from the librarian announcing that she had found the Alice whose name was appended to the writing on the paper I had discovered. The lady had dropped it into the book which was lying open on a table, some one else had closed the book, and it had been returned to the library with the slip in it. The librarian gave the name, Alice Ringold.

Now, I had passed the age of thirty, supposing that no woman had shown any predisposition toward me. I was on the verge of middle age, with no one to care for me, and now accidentally I had discovered that a girl from whom I had parted a dozen years before had been mine for the asking during the whole of that period. I remembered Alice Ringold, a shy little thing, so young that I would not have believed she could love any man. She could not at the time have been more than fifteen.

Here was a chance to break away from the bachelorhood into which fate seemed to have thrown me. I would renew my acquaintance with Alice Ringold, and if she was of the same mind—and from the recent date of what she had written it was likely that she was—I might settle myself in a home under the same advantages as pertained to youth. But I must contrive to make the meeting appear accidental.

She had removed from the town where she had lived to Acland, and there I went. Having learned where her home was situated, I set out to find her, proposing to make up a story as to how I had come to know of her being in Acland. Just before reaching the house a young woman came out of the front door and in another moment met me face to face.

She was Alice Ringold. Between sixteen and twenty-six there is not so great a difference in one's appearance as between twenty-six and thirty-six. At any rate, there was enough left of the girl I had known for me to recognize her. I stopped, lifted my hat and spoke to her. She looked at me, and I saw at once that she knew me.

"Alice Ringold?" I asked.
"Yes; and you are Frank Tisdale."
"Singular that you should know me after so many years' absence."
"No more singular than that you should know me."

"I have been wondering what had become of you since my return to America. I have been hunting you for months."

She cast her eyes down just as she did when she was little more than a child. She was going to the village, and I walked beside her. I told her of the many times I had thought of her during my absence in the east and how I had longed that fate should have brought us together again.

With that slip of paper in my possession I had all the boldness of a grenadier. I made rapid progress, speaking more and more plainly in my love-making as I advanced. When I parted with her I told her I would see her in the evening, and when the evening came, having gone through the preliminaries, I proposed to her.

She said it was very sudden and a great surprise to her. I smiled inwardly at this, thinking of the paper I had found. However, after a little coyness she yielded and accepted me. Just before I left her she said:

"Do you remember my brother Frank?"
"Frank? I believe I do."

"He died soon after you left for China. I have never got over his loss." Great heavens! It was her brother she had loved all these years. Nevertheless we are very happy.

ANTHONY BROTHERS ESTABLISH STORE IN ASHEVILLE, N. C.

WELL KNOWN FLORIDA CORPORATION EXTENDS OPERATIONS TO POPULAR RESORT IN NORTH CAROLINA MOUNTAINS.

Anthony Brothers, who have stores in this city, West Palm Beach and elsewhere, have recently established a business in Asheville, N. C., a popular resort in the mountains. The following in relation to the new enterprise is from the Asheville Times:

"Anthony Brothers, a Florida corporation, operating a chain of stores in several states, has leased the building, 35 Patton avenue, belonging to the Conley estate, which has been occupied by the store of J. H. Law for more than a quarter of a century. The lease was secured through the real estate firm of B. H. Sumner and Sons, S. M. Cariburg, a representative of the company, said this morning that it was the intention of the management to begin business about March 1. Mr. Cariburg will be the manager of the local store.

"The firm of Anthony Brothers, it is stated, will carry a line of men's apparel and men's and ladies shoes of the highest grade. The firm is already operating stores in Florida, Virginia, and West Virginia. Mr. Cariburg, who is to have charge of the local store, has recently opened two stores in Virginia and West Virginia.

"Mr. Cariburg stated that his company had been looking toward Asheville for some time but that there was difficulty in securing the right kind of location. The management desired a place on Patton avenue and such places, not only were at a premium, but were hard to get with any sort of premium. A year ago it was decided to try to get a place to establish a store. Mr. Anthony, it is said, came here, and liked the place, and two employees from the general office spent some time here and also were pleased with conditions.

"Mr. Cariburg came to Asheville several weeks ago, and has been devoting his time to the matter of securing a suitable location for the Asheville store. He stated that he found this no easy task, and it was only by following up every possibility that he finally succeeded.

"The corporation which will conduct the new store is composed of Georgia people. There were three brothers originally associated, it is said, but only one is now active in the business, the other two being bankers in Florida. The business was started about 20 years ago, but its expansion has been mainly during recent years, according to the local representative.

"Mr. Cariburg also said it was the policy of the company, as a rule, to have its stores in the best southern resort towns."

COMPTROLLER OF NEW YORK STATE VISITS DAYTONA

ACCOMPANIED BY HIS DEPUTY, WAS THE GUEST OF MICHAEL SHOLTZ FOR SEVERAL DAYS—WILL RETURN LATER.

Eugene M. Travis, comptroller of the state of New York, accompanied by Deputy Comptroller Boardman, was a Daytona visitor for several days, the guest of Michael Sholtz. The two New York officials had been attending the comptrollers' convention at St. Augustine and concluded to continue their trip to Daytona and visit their former townsman, Mr. Sholtz.

Comptroller Travis was re-elected last month on the republican ticket by over 250,000 majority. Previous to assuming the comptroller's office he was state senator for six years and is one of the best known men in New York in public life.

This is the first trip of both gentlemen to Daytona and they are so well pleased with the city that they both promised Mr. Sholtz to return later in the season when the duties of their offices will better permit.

One on Pa.

My wife asked me if a young man we know was still keeping company with a young lady we know also. I said: "I guess the only way he will ever get her to stick to him is to use flypaper." My little boy said: "Is that how you got mamma?"—Exchange.

Little Betty's Query.

The other day, little Betty, aged three, was sitting on my lap as I was cutting pictures of birds from a paper and sticking them to the window for her amusement. She started jumping around and as I had the scissors in my hand, I told her she must be careful. She at once looked at me and said, "Will I scare the birds away?"—Exchange.

Characteristics of Twins.

Ordinary twins usually resemble each other markedly. It is the identical twins (among the rarest of human phenomena) who can hardly be "told apart." But the most remarkable thing about them is the close moral sympathy that usually exists between them—a sympathy so intense that (unless a vast amount of seemingly reliable testimony on the subject be deemed unworthy of belief) one of them may even receive a subconscious impression of an untoward happening to the other, though a great distance separate them at the time.

EFFORTS WILL BE MADE TO GET THE TEACHERS' MEET

Prof. Marks is always doing something for the schools or the city. At present he is attempting to obtain the meeting of the Florida State Teachers' association for the city. He has sent out letters to the county superintendents and the principals of the schools of the state. If possible this convention will be held the last of December in 1917. A copy of this letter addressed to the teachers of Florida is published herewith:

Daytona, Fla., Dec. 1, 1916.
To the Teachers of Florida:

Daytona, the City Beautiful, known far and wide as the "Prettiest Resort in the World", hereby extends to you the glad hand of fellowship, and in the happy assurance that her people are anxious to greet with their hospitality the educators and teachers of this fair state, she invites them with her portals to enjoy with her citizens the manifold wonders of the city by the sea, to gather in her magnificent Casino Burgoyne for a spirited meeting of the Florida State Teachers' association in the year 1917.

A splendid hotel, the Despland, will be provided for headquarters. It is centrally located and the rates will be as reasonable as can be found anywhere. Many other hotels and boarding houses will welcome you, and fine service and reasonable rates are assured. Daytona can easily care for one thousand or more teachers.

The local Board of School Trustees, the County Board of Education, the City Commissioners, the Commercial club, the Advertising club, the Palmetto club, the Parent-Teachers' association, the Schools, the churches, and various other organizations of the city all join in extending this invitation, and all wish to assure you of royal entertainment and a genuine good time. A word of approval from you addressed to the Supervising Principal will be much appreciated.

Soliciting your kind co-operation and support at the meeting to be held in Arcadia in December of this year, and thanking you in advance for any assistance you may offer, the undersigned remain,

Very sincerely yours,
H. CLAY MARKS,
Supervising Principal.

CHRISTMAS BANKING CLUB STARTS TODAY

MERCHANTS BANK WILL AGAIN OPERATE CLUB TO ENCOURAGE THRIFT AND SAVING AMONG THE PEOPLE.

The Merchants Bank, Daytona's most powerful financial institution, has announced that it will again operate a Christmas Banking club.

The primary object of the Christmas Banking club is to encourage thrift. Through this means many have started the habit of saving systematically, as it has been the channel by which they have learned how many small amounts will grow to quite substantial sums in the course of only fifty weeks.

Most of the happy-go-lucky class feel the need of money at the great Yuletide season, as they are, oftentimes the recipients of gifts and want to reciprocate, but cannot. While they are in this unenviable frame of mind naturally the Christmas Banking club appeals strongly to them and then the first step is taken with a view to having the desired "coin" another year. With this object in view, the Christmas Banking club gets another member. Some of these belong to the wage earning class and they soon find how easy it is to put by a stipulated sum each week. At the end of the 50-week period the member realizes he has quite a substantial sum to his credit and naturally dislikes to let what he has saved in all these weeks go just in a day or two. He has learned the value of saving and the satisfied feeling which goes with having a snug nest egg at the bank.

Now, to induce thrift and the habit of saving, the Merchants bank has clubs which are appropriate to the needs and within the reach of all. For instance they have a one-cent club, a two-cent club and so on up to any amount. The one-cent club calls for a payment of one cent the first week, two cents the second week and so on each week, the amount increasing one cent over the amount deposited the previous week until the last weekly payment aggregates 50 cents. At the end of the 50-week period the depositor has $12.75 principal to his credit to which is added interest if the payments have been regularly made.

It costs nothing to join the Christmas Banking club and there are no fees or fines. Any one may join—there are positively no restrictions.

There is an elaborate ad in this issue about the club—it has a personal invitation to you from the Merchants bank and SUPPOSE YOU READ IT.

MEDICAL SOCIETY TO MEET AND DINE

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS OF VOLUSIA COUNTY TO BE THE GUESTS OF DR. AND MRS. F. J. WALTER.

Practically every physician and surgeon of Volusia county, together with their wives, and a number of visiting members of the medical profession, will be the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Walter at their beautiful new home at the corner of Cedar street and Palmetto avenue next Tuesday evening. The occasion will be the last meeting of the year 1916 of the Volusia County Medical society.

The meeting will be called to order at 6:00 o'clock and the subject to be discussed will be "Senility." Each member will give a three-minute talk on some phase of senility. Among the visiting doctors who are scheduled on the program is Dr. Warren, of Palatka, who will represent the State Medical society, of which organization he is president. Dr. Graham E. Henson, of Jacksonville, will also be one of the distinguished speakers.

At the conclusion of the program the members of the party will adjourn to Cattaneo's Grill where they will be the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Walter at dinner.

Offers to Trade.

Four-year-old son was told to undress and go to bed without any toys, for he had been disobedient. His mother concluded, "It hurts me just as badly as it does you when I have to punish you." Son quickly replied: "All right, mamma, let's trade places."—Exchange.

Duke William's Favorite Town.

William the Conqueror's favorite town was Caen (in Normandy) where he and his duchess, Matilda, who defied the canon law by marrying within the forbidden degrees of consanguinity, did royal penance by building two great abbeys, whose churches of St. Etienne (St. Stephen) and La Trinite contribute so greatly to Caen's beauty today. William's church of St. Etienne, stark and bold and lofty, most wonderfully represents his indomitable spirit and ideas. The smaller, richer and more delicate Trinite is no less characteristically feminine a monument to Duchess Matilda. Another memorial, an insignificant single stone in a pretty, forgotten, flower-starred byway of the old Protestant cemetery, marks the spot where Beau Brummel, the man who for all time made "exquisite propriety" in dress the standard, lies in oblivion beneath the waving grasses of this Norman hillside.—Arthur Stanley Riggs, in the National Geographic Magazine

AMERICAN TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH CO. WANT A FRANCHISE

CITY COMMISSIONERS PASS ORDINANCE ON TWO READINGS, WHICH CALLS AN ELECTION ON 14TH OF JANUARY.

A franchise to the American Telephone and Telegraph company, for the construction and operation of a long distance system in the city of Daytona, subject to a vote of the people, was passed in ordinance on first and second readings at the meeting of the city commissioners, ten o'clock Tuesday morning. The ordinance also calls for an election on January 16.

This new ordinance gives to the telephone company, the right to erect and maintain conduits or poles and wires along the streets and roadsides of the city. The restriction is made that no poles shall be put up along the east side of Beach street. The poles of other companies may be used if the requisite permission is obtained and whatever new poles are erected shall be symmetrical and of nearly equal size. The work of their erection is to be under the supervision of the city. A space shall be left in the conduits or on the poles, if the request is made, for a police and fire alarm system, which may be installed by the city.

The franchise gives the city freedom to purchase all or part of telephone system at the end of thirty years. It states plainly that the American Telephone and Telegraph company shall not operate local phone service.

The expenses of the election on the 16th of January shall be paid by the company, which is either to make a deposit of $500 or tender a bond of $1,000 to guarantee the payment of the expenses.

"Dorr's Rebellion."

From 1663 the people of Rhode Island had lived under a charter granted by Charles II, according to which only those owning a certain amount of property could vote. A desire to change this provision arose and in 1841 two parties were in the field, the "Suffrage" and the "Law and Order." Each party determined to control affairs. Each elected its own state officers. Thomas W. Dorr was chosen governor by the "Suffrage" party. He took possession of the state arsenal. The militia was called and he was forced to flee. In a second attempt the party was downed by United States troops and Dorr was arrested, convicted of treason and sentenced to life imprisonment, but soon was pardoned. This was Dorr's rebellion. A free constitution was adopted by the people while Dorr was imprisoned.

On St. Patrick's Night
By EUNICE BLAKE

"Nora O'Rourke," said the postman on the morning of St. Patrick's day, handing a mail who answered his whistle two letters. "Any such person here?"

"That's myself," said the girl, taking the mail. The postman went on, and she returned to the kitchen. One of the missives bore a black border and a foreign stamp. She tore off the envelope and read the contents, from her sister in Ireland:

Dear Nora—I have to tell you some bad news. Our uncle Patrick, who has been in the grocery business in Dublin, is dead. But there's some good news too. He made a lot of money, and, not having any wife or children, he has left it all to you and me. We will have about $2,000 apiece. Your loving sister, BRIDGET.

The bad part of the news had little effect on Nora, for she had never seen her uncle, and the legacy of $10,000 was a matter of great delight. She was so interested in the latter that she forgot for some time to open her other letter; then she turned her attention to the other letter. It was from Patrick Doolan, asking her to go with him to the ball to be given on the night of St. Patrick's day, and he hoped that she would give him an answer to a question that he would ask her.

She knew very well what that question would be, but was in doubt as to her answer. She held in her hand the letter advising her of her legacy and her lover's note, turning from one to the other back and forth. Pat Doolan was a money maker, owning a number of farms, with which he did hauling. Nora's poverty had constrained her to consider his proposition of marriage, remembering that he would be able to keep the wolf from his and her door. But inclinations rather led her to favor young Michael O'Connor, who was bright and active, but had not the faculty of holding on to what he made. She knew that both Pat and Mike would be at the ball on St. Patrick's evening, and she laid a plan to assist her in the matter between them. During the afternoon she went to see her friend, Kathleen Clancy, and said to her:

"Kath, I'm going to say something tonight to Pat Doolan that may make him get sweet on you."

"What are you going to tell him?"

"That your uncle in Ireland is dead and has left you $10,000."

"But I haven't any uncle in Ireland."

"Never mind that. Likely Pat won't mention the matter to you. If he does don't tell him the truth till tomorrow, and I'll give you something pretty."

Nora went to the ball with Pat and on the way told him that she knew a girl who that morning had received a legacy of $2,000 by the death of an uncle in Ireland. Pat asked who was the girl, and Nora gave him to understand that she was Kathleen Clancy.

During the evening Pat did not refer to the answer to his proposition. Kathleen, not being a very pretty girl, was something of a wall flower.

"I'm sorry for the poor girl," said Pat, "sittin' around with no one to ask her to dance. I'm minded to go and ask her myself."

"That's right," said Nora. "She'll appreciate the attention."

Pat asked Kathleen to dance and, having danced with her once, he concluded to ask her again. Meanwhile Mike O'Connor danced with Miss O'Rourke. He asked her to dance with him again, but she declined. To do so would not have accorded with her plan.

When Pat and Nora were going home from the ball, instead of pressing her for an answer to his proposal, he said to her:

"Nora, I don't like your dancing with that miserable fellow, O'Connor."

"I only danced with him once."

"That's enough. You shouldn't have danced with him at all."

"I'm sorry," said Nora, with apparent penitence.

When Pat left her at the door she said to him:

"I suppose you don't want the answer you said you were lookin' for?"

"Not tonight. I'm thinkin' about your dancing with that spalpeen O'Connor. Maybe I'll get over it in time."

"That won't do you any good, for I won't get over what you've done this night. It's not Kathleen, whose uncle in Ireland has died and left her $10,000, but my own uncle has left that money to me. I told you it was Kathleen to see if you could be switched off by a bait of a legacy, and I've found that you don't value me so much as the fortune. Good night and goodby."

"Nora"—he began in a supplicating tone, but he got no further, for she shut the door in his face.

When Nora and Kathleen met again Nora learned that Pat had not mentioned the legacy, but he had asked Kathleen to go to a ball with him to come off a week later. Then Nora told her friend that inasmuch as she had helped her to find out that the man she had thought of marrying could be so easily turned away from her she would keep her promise to give her something pretty. When she received her fortune she presented her friend with a set of furs.

Nora married Mike O'Connor, and under her tutelage in careful expenditure of moneys he became prosperous. Kathleen was dropped by Doolan, who was beside himself with chagrin when he learned how he had been tricked. He never forgave Nora O'Rourke for having fooled him, but what she had done made her really more desirable.

City of the Saints

CITY AND COUNTY BUILDING

USUALLY it's the young school ma'am who pre-empt the seat next the driver of the sight-seeing auto, who asks the question: "Is polygamy really extinct among these Mormons?" The others behind strain their ears, for they've been dying to make the same query. You see, in Salt Lake City you never can tell. Our own guide about the city, for example, was an intelligent young Mormon who was born under the system, writes Felix J. Koch in the Utica Globe.

In reply they tell you volubly and vaguely that the United States courts have declared polygamy to be illegal, and the Mormon church itself some short time after promulgated an edict forbidding its practice.

Visitors to Salt Lake City naturally seek first of all the "holy of holies" of Mormonism, the Temple block. This, if nothing else, makes one admit that a people, born of polygamy, who can accomplish such wonders as just this structure here, are undoubtedly the peers of many monogamous races. Out on what was the desert at the time of the Mormons' coming, in a desert which tires the traveler even as he glides across it now by railway, there is a city that is as beautiful as any in the land. And its most beautiful thing is this Temple block.

You enter by one of the large gates built of wooden gratings and come upon a small brick structure housing the bureau of information and headquarters for guides. The steps lead up between two lions into the little structure. Then comes an array of chairs, covered over when not in service. On beyond you face the monster arena of pews, yellow, long, smooth benches these, in four endless series, stretching back from the rail; their evenness broke only by a curious series of yellow posts, richly veined, that extend back in severe rows to support the balcony.

Well over that balcony slopes the curious arched roof, one of the greatest arches of its sort in existence. Down from it depend great chandeliers to illumine the chamber. At the heart of the roofing two skylights, square cut, accentuate to the eye the height of this ceiling, as well as reveal its thickness.

Temple All of Wood.

Meanwhile your guide tells how all the structure was put up of wood, and this at a time when the builders were 1,000 miles from a railway. A people that could erect such a thing as this, whether born in polygamy or not, is not to be despised. Nor has it failed to keep pace with the times. The organ, for example, is run by electricity, and a people who will invest in an organ of 5,500 pipes, ranging from half an inch to 35 feet in size, cannot be lacking in culture.

Far down at the front of the organ the three seats await the presiding officers. Sometimes 22 presiding officers are marshaled here. The system maintained in the church government, especially considering the numbers governed, is marvelous. Not even the splendidly organized Roman Catholic church has ever attempted to exact a ture reserved to this end; beds of palm and cacti are banked at either side, and ahead broad cement walks seem to invite you to obtain your cleerone and explore.

With a "sister of the church" as guide, you start. Out in the court she halts to tell the story of the sea gulls, to whose memory the new statue is in course of erection, then continues on to the great granite churchlike building that serves as assembly hall. Within the church body is divided by two long aisles, simple walls of white plastering, reaching up to the roof. The interior is not as large as the Tabernacle, and so suits certain purposes better.

The Mammoth Organ.

The assembly hall has a notable new mammoth organ, concerts on which also draw crowds. Just before it the arrangement is typical of Mormon assembly houses. High above, the ceiling is attractive, too, being divided into sections by curving ridges of a heavy wood. Throughout the assembly hall will bear comparison with church structures in any part of the world.

Crossing the court once more, you learn more of the Mormons. No stated time for worship is set by them. Prayer may be held at any time.

The entrance to this huge Tabernacle is the more unique because so insignificant. Just a small rear door, reached by a wee step. Thence on, up similar stairs, you pass, to the heart of the great Tabernacle. You emerge on a platform that allows you to survey the vast spaces. Just before you is the area for the choir, behind you other series of chairs tier up to the big organ. The instrument is of heavy wood; the great pipes glided and over them all hangs the legend, "Welcome to Utah." Before the pulpit, close at hand, a large leather bench has position. Then comes an array of chairs, covered over when not in service. On beyond you face the monster arena of pews, yellow, long, smooth benches these, in four endless series, stretching back from the rail; their evenness broke only by a curious series of yellow posts, richly veined, that extend back in severe rows to support the balcony.

Your guide explains the division of the Church of Mormon here, while you fix the picture in your memory. You note the strange spottings caused by age upon the ceiling above; you note the strange chandeliers more closely.

By and by you take the steps to the balcony, occupying one of the innumerable seats that range back from the rail. You look straight across to the organ front, to realize distances here, then recall how the gallery is built back some two feet and a half from the wall in order to better the acoustics. Off in the distance, 200 feet or more from where you sit, a janitor, busy cleaning, drops a pin on the rail and you hear it quite distinctly. He rubs his hands and you catch the sound as though you stood close by. All this, remember, is not result of chance, but careful planning by the Mormons.

In Utah today church and state are distinct and separate and all offices of government are open to Mormon and non-Mormon. As result, the state levies its tax on the Mormon, and this he has to meet, along with his church tax. Despite this double taxation Utah folk bear up well and flourish. Salt Lake City has shops, homes, streets the equal of any in the land. In fact, there is a certain cleanliness, freshness and charm to it that delight and that cause the traveler to tarry, again and again in the "City of the Saints," as it is called.

ORMOND

ORMOND, Nov. 29.—The Twenty-fifth Annual meeting of the East Coast association of Congregational churches, in the Union church, brought a large number of distinguished visitors to Ormond this week.

Mrs. C. B. Daniels, of Boston, president of the National Foreign Missionary society, delighted all with her earnest and eloquent addresses.

Dr. J. G. Merrill's association sermon on "Rejoicing in God in the midst of the calamitous conditions of the world" was a masterpiece.

Rev. Robert A. George, of New Smyrna, gave a timely and helpful lecture on "Mind Healing Explained."

Rev. W. H. Hopkins, of Atlanta, Ga., superintendent of the work in the south, was heard with pleasure and profit.

Rev. George B. Waldron, of Tampa, a former pastor of the Ormond church, was given a most cordial welcome. Mr. Waldron is now superintendent of the work in Florida and is recognized by all as just the man for the place.

Dr. James Conway, of Orange City, was chosen president of the association for the year 1916-17 and presided with great force as usual. The program was an excellent one and replete with helpful and improving suggestions for the workers in the various departments of church life.

The women's societies held meetings in the V. I. A. building and rivaled the general meeting both in attendance and interest.

All the visiting delegates were entertained at "Midred Lodge," and left declaring that the meeting in Ormond was a notable one both as regards the pleasure and profit of same.

Mrs. Welles Cheney, of South Manchester, Conn., arrived in Ormond on Monday, and is now with her father, A. N. Street on the Peninsula. Mr. Street has rented his home here for the winter, and within a few days expects to go to Shelbyville, Ky., for the season. Mrs. Cheney will accompany her father to Shelbyville, remaining there for a short time.

Gail Borden with his aunt, Mrs. Eliza A. Graves, arrived at the Borden home on Wednesday.

Mrs. Joseph R. Elliott, of Nyack, N. Y., is here and has opened their Ormond home for the winter. Mr. Elliott will be down later on.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Clements entertained very delightfully at their home on Palmetto avenue, Wednesday evening of last week, a large party for the benefit of the church carpet fund.

The Board of Bond Trustees at a meeting on Tuesday awarded the contract for hard-surfacing Granada avenue to the Alabama Paving company. Work will be started on the Peninsula side and a grouted brick pavement from the bridge head to the beach will be completed by January 1st.

HOLLY HILL

HOLLY HILL, Nov. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Schnorr, of Aberdeen, S. D., arrived last week and are staying at U. Bosley's cottage on Daytona street. While here they expect to erect a cottage on their property purchased from Mr. Bosley.

The honor roll for the second month of school consists of the following pupils: Grammar department: Maude Barber, Nellie Clifton, Alma Parker, Edwina Peterson, Josephine Raulerson, Margaret Somers, Ethel Crowell, Robert Cave, Bert Raulerson. Primary department: Hazel Clifton, Irene Hull, Fay Parker, Luther Coleman, Harvey Hull and Clyde Parker.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hendricks arrived from Norwalk, Conn., and are staying on Mr. Hibbler's yacht, the Pequest. Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks were here early in the fall and liked it so well that they returned and will spend the winter here.

Mrs. G. W. Rogers and two small children returned Monday from Orlando and joined Mr. Rogers and other members of the family at their home on Daytona street.

Miss Sarah Sneller, who had been visiting Miss Josephine Quattlebaum for about a week left Monday for Jacksonville on her return to her home in Montbrook.

The Holly Hill Improvement association is planning on having an entertainment and social in the basement of the Union church on December 7. The proceeds will be used to improve the children's playgrounds and other improvements.

Good to Have Friends.

It is a good thing for a man to have friends. If it were not for friends you would never be aware of the many times you have made a fool of yourself.

Not True Character.

Make no mistake. The man who seeks to cultivate certain qualities of character primarily for the sake of the concrete success he believes will result from their exercise, is foredoomed to failure; such a character, from its very inception, is a sham, and character and resultant effects of service, and success, will some day under the stress of adverse circumstance, crumble into dust together.

CATTANEO'S GRILL IS NOW OPEN FOR WINTER SEASON

ENLARGED ESTABLISHMENT AT 54 SOUTH BEACH STREET HAS ONLY THE MOST MODERN OF APPOINTMENTS.

Cattaneo's Grill, at 54 South Beach street, has recently been more than doubled in size, and is now open for the large winter patronage under the capable management of Hector Cattaneo.

The new grill is artistically decorated and has all the appointments which should be embodied in a cheerful, homelike restaurant. It is the aim of the manager to make out-of-town people especially at home. Scores of visitors to Daytona are pleased to find a place where they can obtain something real to eat.

The grill as conducted during the past summer was less than half of its present size. The partition has been removed from between the adjoining room on the north and a large, pleasant dining room with 20 tables, seating four each is the result. The view out over the river is quite delightful to those enjoying their meals.

Every late feature of up-to-date restaurants has been incorporated in the establishment. The menu enumerates everything within reason that is delicious to eat. A new French cook has recently been engaged and catering orders for all kinds of French pastries are taken. A $250 Edison talking machine with a tasteful assortment of records was recently placed in the dining room for the entertainment of patrons. A telephone booth will be installed in a few days for their convenience. On the whole, Cattaneo's grill is one of the neatest and most modern restaurants on the East Coast.

In the kitchen, the aim has been to insure complete clean lines in every way. At the same time the kitchen's arrangements make sure economy in time. The dish-washing machine, which was recently put in, sterilizes every dish and article of silver before they go into use.

Another department of the kitchen is the bakery which is soon to be installed. A separate room is being prepared for this part of the establishment and the management expects the oven to arrive within a few days.

Manager Cattaneo has been in the business for more than a year at his present place. It has steadily improved since he took it over. With more than 30 years of previous experience in all parts of the world he believes that the Cattaneo's Grill of the present season will be a place of which Daytona should be proud.

TYPHOON FANS ARE INSTALLED

NUMBER OF ALTERATIONS AND
IMPROVEMENTS ARE IN PROGRESS AT THE ARCADE HALL AND THEATRE.

A number of alterations and improvements are being made at the Arcade in preparation for the winter season and these improvements include one, the installation of "Typhoon" fans, that will be even more important to patrons during the summer months than now. These fans are the same style as are used in Madison Square garden, New York, and are made by the Typhoon Fan company, of that city. It is claimed that with these fans the air within a building can be changed three times within a minute. Also they can be reversed and hot or vitiated air and dust may be drawn from the building.

A fan of this description has been placed at the rear of the amusement hall and twin fans in the theatre, while another is located on the roof over the entrance to the arcade. The fan in the hall is eight feet in diameter, those in the theatre are six feet and the one on the roof is seven feet in diameter. Those in the hall and theatre are operated by two five-horse power electric motors, while the one on the roof, which is for advertising purposes, will depend upon the wind for motive power. Mr. Kreitzberg has been at heavy expense in putting in these fans, but it is a feature of his management to be always on the lookout for the comfort and convenience of patrons of the Arcade amusement hall and theatre.

Mr. Elder, who was engaged last week on the installation of the Typhoon fans, was called to Miami Sunday in connection with the putting in of fans at that time, but is expected to return today and complete the work here. Mr. Elder had planned to have his wife meet him in Jacksonville, but after seeing the ocean beach here he decided to have her come on to Daytona, the beach holding a strong attraction for him.

Another improvement at the Arcade is the placing of the ball game alongside the restaurant and opposite the theatre, where it will prove more popular than in the past. The big electric organ is being overhauled and placed in first class condition and in fact everything about the place is being brightened up and made attractive for the winter season, which is already upon Daytona and promises to be a record one. This was noticeable at the Arcade Saturday evening when there was a big crowd at that popular amusement place and all the amusement features were well patronized.

Not Lasting.

is a rank injustice to the citizens, and especially to those citizens who so nobly responded to the invitation to build their walks and the omissions are in marked contrast to the liberal response made by the School Board and the F. E. C. railway. Crowds are coming to Florida and streams of autos are going through our town and it depends upon what many of them see as to the reports they make of Port Orange. Many towns have side walks extending way out in the suburbs, built by the developers to attract buyers and home builders. We certainly make a poor showing from the "Dixie Highway" on Ridgewood and at Dunlawton as travelers go by. Had all worked together unitedly we could have had a beautiful town and been ready to gain the approval of a host of travelers who would have advertised us as an attractive place, but who will probably have little to say to our advantage under existing conditions. Its time to get busy, if we want to grow.

Optimistic Thought.

The just give men a patient hearing, saying they will show proofs they are not evil.

Hard on the Baby.

Mrs. Flatbush—"I see a new safety pin has two grips which seem to make it proof against dislodgement." Mrs. Bensonhurst—"That makes it very bad if the baby happens to swallow one, doesn't it?"

Not So Slow for Philadelphia.

"Willie," cried Willie's mother, "come right in the house this very minute and go to work on your arithmetic." "No, ma," returned Willie, "I want to grow up a law-abiding citizen and the Pennsylvania legislature has just passed a law forbidding child labor."—Life.

Omnipotent.

Harold was playing with a little companion, James, under a tall hickory tree. Said James, boastfully: "I can climb that tree." "Huh, you can't, either," replied Harold. "Yes, I can climb to the top," insisted James. Then, flashed back Harold, scornfully: "Who do you think you are anyway? God?"—Exchange.

Not a Head for Figures.

A friend of mine who was the proud father of a six-year-old boy, told me the following story: "My youngest son, Warton, had been an attendant at Sunday school for more than two years, when one Sunday afternoon he said to me (whose head is bald): 'Daddy, the Sunday school teacher says all the hairs on our heads are numbered. Well, then, it seems to me you haven't much of a head for figures.'" And, of course, the father agreed.—Exchange.

EXHIBITION TO PROVIDE FOR ART DECORATIONS

An exhibition of pictures will be held in this city for the purpose of raising funds for the purchase of pictures for the walls of the public schools on December 26-27-28.

This exhibition of pictures is one of more than ordinary interest. It consists of carbon photographs and engravings, loaned by the Elson Art Publishing company, Inc., Belmont, Mass. The collection is a large one and contains only the very best reproductions of the masterpieces of art of different countries and periods. Nearly every gallery and country in the world would have to be visited to see the original pictures which are brought together in one collection.

The collection comprises two hundred subjects representing all the principal schools of art and including many reproductions of sculpture, architecture and important views from nature. Few collections have ever been brought together which so completely cover the history of art of all times as this. A catalog will be on sale at the exhibition hall.

Achieving Fame or Fortune.

"There is no more common thought among young people than the foolish one that by and by something will turn up by which they will suddenly achieve fame or fortune. Things do not turn up in this world unless somebody turns them up."—James A. Garfield.

Leave Him Alone.

When a man comes home at night, "dog tired," and perhaps worried about his business, questions, even sympathetic questions, are like turning the knife in the wound of his mental weariness. Let silence like a poultice come to heal the wounds of sound. Have sense enough to leave him alone until his brain is rested and his mood changes. Thus advises Eleanor Clapp, writing for Farm and Home.

He Knows It Now.

"That fellow certainly needed a haircut," remarked a customer who had just taken the chair occupied by an individual with a wondrous thatch covering, in a nearby tonsorial atelier. "That man is the finest musician in New York," said the barber. "Why do musicians wear long hair?" asked the inquisitive customer. "Pshaw, I thought everybody knew that," answered the man in the white coat. "They wear long hair to protect their ears, of course—their sensitive ears. All depends with musicians on the ears, the same as all depends on the eyes with painters. And the ears of musicians are delicate, liable to take cold, liable to a head inflammation and what not. So they protect them with long hair, and you have no more right to laugh at the mane of a pianist or violinist than at the protective shields and pads of your favorite half-back!"—New York Times.

SHOLTZ WILL NOT ASK FOR FRANCHISE

SAYS HE WAS CONTEMPLATING BUILDING BRIDGES ONLY BE-CAUSE HE HAD BEEN SOLICIT-ED TO DO SO.

Some opposition seems to have been developed to the proposed franchise which Michael Sholtz had given notice that he would apply for at the next meeting of the board of county commissioners to construct a draw bridge across the St. Johns river at Osteen, and Mr. Sholtz says he will not ask for the franchise. He has also given notice that he will apply for a franchise to construct the same kind of a bridge at Crow's Bluff but if there is any opposition to this no further steps will be taken looking to a franchise, Mr. Sholtz says.

Mr. Sholtz states that he considered building the two bridges only because he had been urged to do so but that if the people do not want him to build the bridges he will drop the matter. The information which Mr. Sholtz possesses is that thus far opposition to only the Osteen ferry has developed.

Hot Compresses Needed.

Here is a method of preparing hot compresses for the sick when moist heat is required, which it would be well for all housewives to know about: Take a double cooker, partially fill lower part with water, and place over fire. Wring out pieces of wet flannel until as dry as possible, and place in upper half of cooker. Place upper part in lower, and when the water boils the flannels are ready to apply. No wringing is necessary.

Sight in Plants.

That plants actually may see does not seem so impossible to those who have watched a grapevine reach across a space of several feet and obtain support for its extending growth by fastening its tendrils to neighboring objects. The long tendrils sent out by the grapevine sweep in long courses through the air until they touch some fixed object, such as a tree limb, a post or a wire, around which they quickly turn and bind themselves tenaciously. The seeming accuracy with which the tendrils reach out for distant supports is almost enough to convince one that the plants see what they are reaching for. Another example of the seemingly intelligent and accurately directed actions of plants is furnished by the insectivorous plants, such as the Venus Fly-Trap, which instantly closes upon and absorbs as food insects that alight upon it.

WELL, John, my boy, here goes I have already told you both that I "have got no learning" and that I am a "nothing," but you will insist that I will tell you something of "old times" and if I must, I must.

I first saw the beautiful river in the autumn of 1824 when I was a wee bit liddle, only eight years old, and I well remember how very strange and how very different everything looked to what it did in my native land, Auld Scotia. The sun was brighter, the sky more brilliant and clearer. The food of all kinds was different—no grass, no hills or mountains, no soils but sand. Indian corn, as we called it in Scotland, I had only seen as a curious seed in my aunt's collection of curiosities. Pumpkins were to me a queer thing and tasted like one of our murrishes touched by frost. The birds and insects and everything were new, and when they began to tell of "cabbage trees," I opened my eyes wide to see them. In short, all was really a new world to me.

At that time the settlements that I recall were, beginning at the North, the large plantation of J. J. Bulow. Next on the South was that of J. and E. W. Ormond; next, McHardy; next, old Mr. Bunch—South of him the place of John and Tom Addison and then lastly towards the upper part of Tomoka Creek was the place of Mr. Anderson. On Mount Oswald there lived Mr. James Darley, a Yorkshire man. Farther down the river I do not know who then lived except that at Smyrna lived a northern man, a Mr. Ives and his wife and children. At the Bar or near what was then called Bob's Bluff, were pilots. The only names that I can recall was one "Lee," a Portuguese, and an old Englishman that we used to call "Daddy Jessie." At that time nothing was cultivated by anyone for market, but sea island or long staple cotton, and for food, corn, peas, sweet potatoes and tannies, or as the botanists now call them "Caladium Esculentum," and the South Sea folks "tarro," a plant I think introduced with the negroes from Africa together with the "Sesame" or Blue Seed, and the ground nut or Goober peas. Aren't we indebted to the nigger after all, John? What would even classic New York or the Bowery be without goobers? And if we could only use the Bene as Mactaphala the Forty Thieves did wouldn't we say "Open Sesame" to some of J. Gould or Vanderbilt—or any other man's gold—and make a better sue of it, too. Well, these old planters had ways of their own but to give you some idea of the extent of their operations, I will say that Bulow had about three hundred hands; Bunch about same; Addison about sixty and Anderson about same; Darley about twenty or thirty and about all these places there was not a fence or a plow or a cart at that time—everything was done by manual labor. The few cattle that they kept were kept in enclosed pastures. They had plenty milk, butter and eggs but for fresh meat depended on the Indian hunters with whom we were on the best terms, and who kept them well supplied with venison and turkeys, wild honey and coontie, or arrowroot. Besides this they could come in the fall with large droves of fat hogs and fat beeves and trade them off for blankets, homespun, powder, lead, red cloths, calico, beads, etc., etc., at such rates that the cost was but a trifle. The trade almost ended in a drunk and sometimes a big fuss. I remember once old "Billy Bowlegs" after trading and as usual, getting drunk, kicking up the very devil because a fat heifer he had sold and which, in being killed, proved to be with calf, alleging that he had been very badly cheated inasmuch as he had not been paid for the calf. He raved like a madman, and finally subsided into a good long spell of crying and begged to be paid for it, and so went on until the old chief went to sleep.

Well, you see I am off the track and must get on again. All the work, as I said, was manual. The axe and the hoe were about the only tools used, and Mr. Nigger "toted" on his head or shoulders all the crops to the barn and the logs to build the barn or house. Every place had from two to twenty hand-mills of stone to grind the corn and in most places you could hear the mill a-going for half the night as each man or head of family ground out his grist for the next day's grub. The ration was a peck of corn per week. This may seem but poor feed for a man, but it was his bread

The following is a copy of a letter written by James Ormond, grandson of Captain James Ormond, one of the original owners of the J. and E. W. Ormond grant which is now part of the lands of the only and was ample under the then system of task work. All sorts of labor on the plantation was portioned out—so much wood to be cut down in clearing land; so much in grubbing roots; so much in preparing the land for planting; so much in hoeing and harvesting, and so on, so that each one knew in the morning his or her appointed task and these tasks were so light that an industrious hand could always get through with them by two or three o'clock in the day and the rest of the time was his to fish or hunt or plant or plow as to him seemed best. All had his own little fields or pastures; most of the men owned their own firelocks or guns. Many owned canoes and cast nets so that on the whole they fared well and were well clad and cared for.

In all these settlements there was neither priest, preacher, lawyer or doctor within fifty miles and they did not seem to miss them. They lived quietly and peacefully and plentifully until the change of flag. Then the fire water came in and as it swept the Indians so it swept off these primitive people. These are the people I found settled on the Halifax when first I knew it; how they came there history tells.

I think that after the English had given up Florida to the Spaniards all the settlers left and went to the West Indies. The Halifax reverted to wild woods. Then the Spanish government invited them back and gave as inducements grants of land. Among those so induced to come over from the Bahamas were:

Captain James Ormond, my grandfather.
Tom Addison.
John Addison.
John Bunch.
Mrs. Kerr.
Mr. and Mrs. Anderson.
General Williams, Lady and family.
McHardy.

Halifax company. This letter was written to John Anderson, one of the proprietors of the Ormond Hotel, and gives reminiscences of the period from 1812-13 some American Patriots, as they called themselves, but who were in fact only plunderers, started in a boat from Amelia Island to rob the planters on the Halifax. When they got to Smyrna they seized old Daddy Jessie and compelled him to pilot them up the river to the landing on the Tomoka at Addison's place. Meanwhile the boat had been seen by the lookout at St. Augustine and Governor Coppinger sent a squadron of Dragoons to cut them off which they did most effectually. They armed all the negro men and lay in ambush for the thieves at Addison's landing on each side of the Causeway. The Patriots, suspecting nothing, left only a small boy in charge of their boat and as they got well on to the Causeway were shot down to a man, the only prisoner taken being the boy and I am told the governor was not well pleased that they saved his life. It was in this execution, as we might call it, that one of Captain Ormond's old negro men, an old French negro, from St. Domingo, distinguished himself by politely obeying orders. In drawing on one of the thieves who begged for his life piteously, Old Port, as we called him (his name was Freepert) pulled off his hat and made the thief a polite bow and begged his pardon for doing what he was about to do, but at the same time assured him he was only doing it in obedience to orders, and blew out the fellow's brains. This was the last fellow raid ever made on the Colony.

Darley, I think, came later. J. J. Bulow was a Carolinian from Charleston. His father had made a fortune in cotton at that time of the embargo and invested in lands and negroes. Soon after settling the place he died and John J. came into possession of a large fortune when only about sixteen or eighteen years old. He was pretty well educated but very wild and dissipated and soon, after the way of all such, he died and the property, I think, reverted to an only sister, a Mrs. Bucknor, wife of a New York broker and is, I think, still owned by her sons. The McHardy property fell into the hands of the Lawtons of Charleston. By them it was sold to Darley, or rather, I believe, exchanged for the Mount Oswald tract. The Bunch land was sold to Col. Dumment, an old West Indian and made into a sugar estate as already stated. I well remember the astonishment of an old West Indian sugar boiler he brought over from Barbadoes the first time he saw a white frost on the ground; he absolutely thought it was sugar.

Douglas Dumment, son of the old Colonel, settled the famous Orange Grove on Indian River. After the death of John and Tom Addison, the estate was administered by Joe Hunter and sold to the two brothers, McRaes and by them planted in sugar.

The Anderson place on the Tomoka River was, I think, planted in sugar. After the death of old Mr. Anderson his sons, George and James bought a place down the river opposite what we call Pelican Island and there established a sugar plantation. They named it Dunn Lawton—Dunn being the family name of their mother and Lawton the party whom they bought. About the same time, one Major Herick from Charleston bought and settled a sugar plantation at a point on the river called "Orange Point," and near him two of General Williams sons, Sam and John, also settled a sugar plant. In 1832 or thereabouts, two New Yorkers, Cruger and DePeyster, bought the negroes of Ormond Estate and settled a sugar plant near Smyrna. All these were doing well till the Indian War of 1836 broke out and destroyed them all. I forgot to add that the Darley Estate was afterwards sold to the Marquis De Forzeand, and at his death his heiresses returned to France—deeded the property to Bishop Verdt for the use of the Catholic Church of St. Augustine.

There were of course a good many serious and a good many funny things always going on. One of the serious ones—first then, during the War of 1812-13 some American Patriots, as they called themselves, but who were in fact only plunderers, started in a boat from Amelia Island to rob the planters on the Halifax. When they got to Smyrna they seized old Daddy Jessie and compelled him to pilot them up the river to the landing on the Tomoka at Addison's place. Meanwhile the boat had been seen by the lookout at St. Augustine and Governor Coppinger sent a squadron of Dragoons to cut them off which they did most effectually. They armed all the negro men and lay in ambush for the thieves at Addison's landing on each side of the Causeway. The Patriots, suspecting nothing, left only a small boy in charge of their boat and as they got well on to the Causeway were shot down to a man, the only prisoner taken being the boy and I am told the governor was not well pleased that they saved his life. It was in this execution, as we might call it, that one of Captain Ormond's old negro men, an old French negro, from St. Domingo, distinguished himself by politely obeying orders. In drawing on one of the thieves who begged for his life piteously, Old Port, as we called him (his name was Freepert) pulled off his hat and made the thief a polite bow and begged his pardon for doing what he was about to do, but at the same time assured him he was only doing it in obedience to orders, and blew out the fellow's brains. This was the last fellow raid ever made on the Colony.

A long time after this happened John Addison imported a Dogue named Heas Wellman to oversee the place. One day it happened that Wellman was riding along the King's Road when what should he meet in the road but a good sized alligator. He had never seen one before so what does he do but untie the rope on his horse's neck and making a running moose on it and leaving one end still fast to the horse, he slips the other end over the head of Mrs. 'Gator, putting spurs to his horse. Of course the 'gator held back until jerked forward by the rope. This pulled him toward the horse who, looking back and thinking the 'gator was springing up to him, set off at full speed. Like John Gilpin of old, it was neck or nothing. It so happened that old Addison was in his field on horseback as Wellman turned into it from the King's Road and Mr. A., not stopping to look or think much about it but supposing it was another Patriotic charge, set off for home on his horse also at full speed. Wellman shouted, "Stop Mr. Addison," while the latter yelled back "Fire and be d—d," and so they went till both reached home when the laugh went on both.

Old Darley was a queer old Yorkshire man. He had a theory that this world was a living being; that the ocean was its heart; the streams and rivers the veins and arteries and the men but lice as it were on its surface. He had a way of fishing or bobbing for alligators, then very numerous on the Tomoka and great nuisances as they were, very fond of both pigs and puppies. He would take a pup and tie a bog hook and line to him, set him afloat on a board and with an empty barrel for bob. Pup would whine, 'gator would boggle him hook and all when he got tired of dragging the barrel about the river, Darley would take him in.

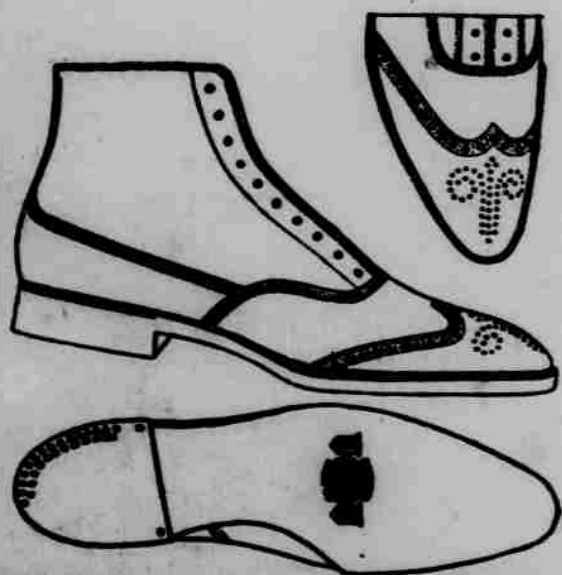

These are some of the old settlers as I found them in 1824. I left the country in 1834 and lived in Charleston, S. C., till 1839, with the exception of a short trip I made down there during the War with the Seminoles in 1836. Even then in 1834 many of the old people had passed away. My recollections thereabouts are not very distinct. I know that my uncle Emanuel W. Ormond died in St. Augustine about September, 1829 and my father er at Damiatta in 1830. By this time, too, I think both the Addisons and old Mr. Bunch were dead, as well as the McKees and old Mr. Anderson.

SOME EARLY HISTORY OF HALIFAX COUNTRY

I think it was in 1830 or 1831 that a terrible fever swept through the settlement and destroyed many of the new comers. Among them Mr. Pol-lard, a nephew of Darley's who had come out from Yorkshire in England to pay them a visit. This fever must have been what is known as the yellow fever. Darley died while I was in Charleston. His place was sold by the executors or administrators to Marquis De Forcand as before stated. My trip to Florida in 1836 was a short one. I volunteered from Charleston, came down in a steamer to St. Augustine, joined the Mosquito Roarers, Captain Douglas Dummett, then by boat and afoot we reached the headquarters camp at the place and on the tenth day, I think, after leaving Charleston, I was "hors du combat," with four Indian bullets in me, having fought the celebrated battle, as it was called, of "Dunn Lawton" on the banks of the Halifax. You know the place, I think it is now called Daytona. Anyhow, it was Anderson's plantation and just opposite Pelican Island. Our so-called battalion was under the command of Major Putnam of St. Augustine, a set of raw, undisciplined militia with not the first idea of obedience; all sorts of arms, in fact, just a mob of men, not one of which except perhaps old Ben W., our guide and interpreter, an old colored man, had ever before seen a gun fired in anger. Well, we started from Bulow's house about the morning. When we were about opposite Orange Point on our way down we saw signs of the Indians from the fires they were making by burning the houses of the planters so we slowed along until dark when we drew near Anderson's dwelling house, cribs, etc., which were near the mouth of the canal. Orders were passed that all the boats should approach the shore together, but one paid no attention to it, and the first thing we knew was a lot of our men chasing chickens round this fire, and we had to open fire on them. The Indians had by this time retired to their camp in the swamp at the Sugar House (which we of course did not know then). We advanced by orders a few hundred yards back from the river on the road towards the sugar house, when we heard in the dark an irregular breathing noise. Soon our scout, Ben, brought word it was caused by the cattle belonging to the place which were all penned up and ready to be driven off in the morning. It was then decided by our officers that we should camp without fires on the spot and lay between the cattle and the Indians so as to ambush them as they came down in the morning to drive them away. In this we were disappointed for soon after daylight two only of the Indians were seen coming down the road towards the cattle pens, rifle on shoulder, and on these the whole undisciplined body opened fire. One was killed on the spot; the other, though badly crippled, managed to escape. Then things took place that were a disgrace to the name of man; the poor dead wretch was even scalped and otherwise horribly mutilated by some of our cowards, for I don't think a brave man could be guilty of such acts. The command scattered in pursuit of the wounded Indian and it was with some difficulty that they could be got together again. This was at last effected, when they were marched back to the bank of the river and posted about the ruins of the burnt houses. Soon the Indians were seen coming down boldly led by "Wild Cat," or as the Indians called him "co wak co chee," a son of old Billy "Bowlegs." This fellow was a splendid specimen of an Indian chief; tall, straight and quite a handsome man, but an impudent dog and with the manners of a hog. I knew him very well as we were boys together and he and his father had often visited and traded at my father's house. Down he came whooping and yelling, paint and feathers and all, and with the reflectors from the Light House at Mosquito Bar (which they had lately burnt) bound round his manly brow by way of ornament. When they got within a hundred yards or so of where we were posted, they all seemed suddenly to disappear and all was dead silence. That was the most trying time to me of all the fight. They were creeping up to us in the long grass and saw palmetto scrub and we could see them and yet every moment expected to hear them open or feel their shot. Soon it began and it was pop away on both sides and it was a whoop and yell and fire and curse for how long I don't know for I took little note of time I can tell you, but it seemed to me a good long time. Then came the order from Major Putnam to retreat to the boats. This was done in pretty good order but a few lagged behind and the Indians began to leave the scrub and to rush on them. It was there our old negro guide, Ben, squallied out at the top of his voice, "My God, Gentlemen, is 'on na' going to run away from a parcel of damned Indians?" Order was given to stop the retreat and "face the foe." This was promptly obeyed when firing was resumed and the Indians again took cover. Well, we fit and fit for I don't know how long. Well, the order was given again to retreat to the boats and now it was "suave qui peut" which being freely translated means, I think, "the devil catch or take the hindmost." Now, nobody wanted to be the hindmost or the devil to catch him. You see some who got left in the first retreat were determined to obey orders this time, and so it was the second retreat was by no means an orderly one tho' it was ordered. The tide was out, the water shallow and the boats a long way out, so it happened that in splashing along at double quick every gun in the command (mostly flint and steel locks) got wet and could not be fired. Then the largest boat, a whale boat, was hard and fast aground and there were not enough men around her at one time to push her afloat, so they crowded into the other three and left her to her fate. Young Gould took off to the South or towards Pelican Island, he and a young man named Marks. They got to the island, Marks swam across to the beach and got home to the camps about as soon as the rest; Gould would not risk it and was captured by the Indians and horribly burnt at the stake. At the same time, Will, a negro belonging to Mr. Anderson, was killed on the spot. As we reached the boats the Indians opened a tremendous and deadly fire on the command and then occurred most of the casualties of the day. It was while standing up in the boat and trying to shove her off facing them that I got all my wounds and with me Julius Reynolds of Wadmalaw Island, was badly shot in the face. Domingo Martinello, of St. Augustine got wounded, from which he soon after died and several others whose names I have forgotten. The Indians got the whale boat afloat and attempted to follow us, but after we got one musket dry enough to shoot, loaded her up, and as they came on all standing up in the boat, some poling her along and some firing at us, off went old Brown Ben with an ounce of ball in her. The ball ricocheted or skipped along on the top of the water till it came where the Indians were in the boat when it took one fellow about the short ribs and he went a keeling over head into the river and that stopped the pursuit. One of the fellows now dead, and a very brave man in a fight, was badly fooled just about the end. He had been dodging the balls all day, but now thinking he was out of reach he jumped into the boat and clipping his hands on the seat of honor invited the enemy to osculate and that with a blessing. Just at the moment a spent ball instead of an Indian's took him pat upon that same, and maybe he did not squall and curse a few—it was the only wound he had received that day and I never heard that he boasted of it. So ends the battle of Dunn Lawton. There was one man in the fight that I do not think ever knew what fear was—that was our Captain Douglas Dummett, but our men tho' as brave as the common run of men were wholly undisciplined and would not be made to see the necessity of obeying orders.

Captain Dummett was one of the old time gentlemen, but had a hard row to hoe in after life—peace to his ashes—we will not disturb their rest. I could tell many an anecdote of his wild pranks for he was one of your practical jokers, but such things might not be taken by those who loved him as well as I do in the spirit in which I wrote, and so Vale.

MAIN CONCRETE WORK ON SEABREEZE SCHOOL B'LOS NOW COMPLETE

$40,000 BUILDING FOR SEABREEZE-
DAYTONA BEACH PUBLIC SCHOOL WILL BE READY IN JANUARY.

The new $40,000 school building, which has been erected by the C. T. Dawkins firm, of Jacksonville, during the past summer on the corner of Earl street and Grandview avenue, Seabreeze, is now rapidly nearing completion and the change from the old building on Halifax avenue and Ora street will probably take place at the beginning of the January term.

The leading school officials of the county say that the new building is the best educational building that has ever been erected in this part of the state and that there are a few more modern and efficient school buildings in the country.

The large reinforced concrete, stucco-covered building of modernized Spanish architecture, occupies the southern corner of the three-acre lot which was purchased by the county board for the site several months ago for $8,000. The purchasing money for the lot and structure was derived from the sale of $50,000 bonds, which the citizens of the Seabreeze-Daytona Beach district voted in 1915. The sale of the bonds netted more than six per cent interest making a total of approximately $53,000 which is being used for entire institution.

The building when finished will contain ten large, regular class rooms, several special class, recitation rooms, store rooms, offices, an auditorium to seat 600, a gymnasium, and other appurtenances of a modern school building.

The contract for the reinforced concrete work was sublet by C. T. Dawkins to the Florida Schubb Concrete Construction company, also of Jacksonville, whose construction gangs arrived early last spring and have only just recently finished their part of the work. In order to pour the concrete into the forms and economize labor and time, a large timber frame, construction tower was first erected at the center point of the east side of the building. At the foot of this tower was placed the concrete mixer and the engine by means of whose power, the mixed concrete was lifted high in hoppers and thus poured into the long sheet metal funnels, through which the mixture ran into the wooden forms, where it was allowed to harden, forming the walls and all other basic parts of the building. Only approved mixtures were used in the work. Concrete, sand, crushed stone and water in their proper proportions formed the mixture. The strong half-inch rods which run in cross directions as reinforcements in the cement, are made of Bessemer steel. The footings of the building are guaranteed to support a two-ton load on every square foot of surface; the corridor floors and stairs will hold up 100 pounds a square foot; all general floors will bear a load of 60 pounds and the roofs will stand a superimposed load of 30 pounds. All of these are the very minimum estimates. The concrete work is thoroughly reinforced also for any shrinkage which might result from changing temperatures. Two large auto trucks were in use during the entire summer in hauling sand from Mt. Ararat, west of Daytona, and crushed rock which was brought from without the state, from the railroad station.

Several contractors and builders of the Peninsula, who inspected the building during its process of construction, were unanimous in saying that the work was well and strongly done.

The roof of the building is of the built-up variety. It is made of ten alternate layers of liquid asphalt and asbestos roofing paper, with a probable top coat of gravel and is a style of roofing that is extensively used for buildings of this kind. The main walls excepting those of the auditorium, extend several feet above the level of the roof forming a parapet around the large and almost flat surface. On the top of this will be laid an overhang of dark red, Imperial Spanish tile.

The basement or ground floor has a 30-foot corridor running from one side to the other. The front room on the south side will be used by the Domestic science classes and also as a dining room. It is 65 feet long and 25 feet wide. The south room across the hall is 27 by 30 feet and belongs to the manual training classes. Another will be used for the pupil's bicycles. Two large rooms will be left unfinished for the present.

From the first floor the building has an elevation of 36 feet. The main entrance is in the front of the east or Grandview avenue side, and has a width of 12 feet up the stairway from the ground to the main floor. At each end of a ten-foot corridor is a smaller entrance, the stairs of which is 16 feet wide. From the front of the building four classrooms averaging 27 feet square open on this hall way and on the other side are two class rooms, a store room, the principal's office and the toilets.

Across from the main entrance a broad stairway of 18 feet leads down to the pit of the auditorium. This assembly hall has dimensions of approximately 70 by 50 feet and 24 feet in height and will seat 600 people and has a 30-foot stage with dressing rooms, for school entertainments. Part of the auditorium floor will have movable seats and will be used at present for the basket ball court. It is 50 by 30 feet in size. This room will fill a long felt need for a general assembly room which might be used not only for school purposes but for general meetings of the peninsula citizens.

Flights of stairs at each end of the hall lead up to the second story which is arranged in a general manner, like the first floor of the main building. Two large classrooms and the high school recitation hall, which is 50 by 22 feet, are on the east side and opposite these are two other classrooms the physics and chemistry laboratories and others whose purpose is not yet designated.

The different classrooms will be furnished with slate blackboards and have been plastered white to insure ample light reflection. The woodwork will be stained dark brown or green. Picture mouldings are also required in the specifications. The furnishings will be up-to-date adjustable seats and desks and will be ordered by the county board within the next few weeks.

Steam heat will furnish warmth in the winter. The heating system is yet to be installed. The plumbing contract calls for a septic tank to be put in the ground at the rear of the building for its sewage. City water will probably be used entirely and sanitary drinking fountains will be placed on the campus and in the building.

The completed structure has a frontage of 140 feet on Grandview avenue and its main part is 70 feet deep. The auditorium wing goes back another 70 feet on the west. The whole stucco covered building will have a dark gray color and presents an imposing appearance from many streets.

Girl's Absorbing Curiosity.

Perhaps many a man has been accepted because some girl had an absorbing curiosity to find out what she could make of him.

Sure Way to Failure.

Our idea of a sure way to bring about a "dismal failure" would be to marry a man because he was a "dreamy dancer."

Daily Thought.

If a man examines his thoughts, he will find them all occupied with the past and the future. We hardly ever think about the present. . . . Thus, always laying ourselves out to be happy (in the future) it is inevitable that man cannot be so actually.—Pascal.

Ungrammatical.

We recently heard a remark by an old Kentucky farmer which seems worth entering for the ungrammatical sentence prize. To a visitor he observed: "Them three Miss Perkins is three of as pretty a gal as ever I see."—Boston Transcript.

Dog Killing is Different.

Human nature is funny in other respects, too. For instance, there are men who will think it accidental if you run your flivver over one of their kids, but if you kill their dogs they will be certain you did it on purpose and will hate you forever.

SOME EARLY HISTORY OF HALIFAX COUNTRY

He was one of the keenest sports men that I ever knew. He kept a pack of dogs for hunting of all sorts, but delighted most in hunting coons, cats and possums. Foxes were not very common in those days and being only of the grey sort afford but poor sport. A splendid shot and patient fisherman. He kept all sorts of nets and tackle and had the fastest canoe on the river, the "Frying Fish."

Below kept a light oared barge and traveled in state with his guns and nets and tents and cooks and used to have a grand time of it, but I think "Old Doug" had the most fun. As I think I told you all that was raised there in my time for market was cotton (the Sea Island variety) and sugar all went out at Mosquito Bay. It was conveyed there in large boats, some of them manned by ten oarsmen and one of the best pieces of fun we used to have was a race from the Bar to Mt. Oswald Point, the oarsmen singing all the time and keeping time to the stroke of the oars. It seemed as if they could not get tired.

As I have told you all work on Plantations was task work, and it even went so far that each hand had in a field what was called a "course" of tasks, that is, a line of quarter-acre lots laid out across the field which he or she was entitled to work every day so that if he did the work well, the next time they came to work that field in regular course he would find it so much easier to do. In this way it was made their own interest to do the work well. Then they had the privilege of gaining time as they worked, that is, if he finished today's task and chose to do a part of tomorrow's he could do so and have it credited to his account. In this way a party of them would club together and work a week or even more at a time which they would spend in fishing and hunting party down the river, coming back with the boat loaded with salted fish, wild duck and game and young pelicans and such, etc., etc., so they had lots of fun in well a work in the old times. The women were then as they are now full of all sorts of superstitious notions; certain families of them, particularly those born with cauls like the Scotch Highlanders, had the "second sight" and could see spirits at all times day or night.

Good and bad luck, from the flight of birds, or who or what you first met in the morning and a thousand such things were common among them. Banished wraiths, ghosts, both on foot and on horse-back, were seen by the initiated day and night. There were of course some rogues among them and it was counted no crime to steal from Master for his not they belong to him, so how could he steal from him? It was all one anyway! But mostly they were a peaceful, contented and honest peasantry and the "knowledge of good and evil" now being imported to them will I fear do them no more good than it did our first mother. They shall also "surely die" out—be absorbed and go like the dark races always have done before the pale faced race, who will have no slave in name but in reality enslaving all and everything he can, animate or inanimate harnessing even the lightning to do his bequests. Now even going to the center of Africa to civilize and Christianize the black heathen because dollars can be made out of them and tearing out of the count all the White Heathen in all the world who "caunt" be made to work for them under any name, slave or free. Well I suppose like the mule he had no business being a nigger.

I see you are going to have settlers on the Indian river and Upper St. John's from the Mediterranean, Sicily and so forth. Well, I hope they may succeed and do well, but it is strange how "History repeats itself," in Florida as elsewhere.

You cannot have forgotten the Turnbull Colony that was settled at New Smyrna years ago by this same class of people from Minorca and Majorca—and what came of it? The present effort may do better, as they will be more scattered, more free, perhaps better paid, and some of them with people of their own land, and besides the greater facilities for "getting" now may be an inducement for them not to get.

I have done all I could do towards getting the Halifax and Indian River country into the world, and the Georgia Senator, par excellence of the day, the practical man, promised me that your Senators, Call and Jones, should have all the aid he could give them to effect that object. I do trust and hope that you will this season get your pet scheme, the Matanzas Canal, pushed through, and the little cut between the Indian River and Hillsboro. It does not seem to me that the Nabobs of St. Augustine stand greatly in their own light, able as many of them are that they do not push this through without waiting for government help. Why with the canal finished and communication on a fair scale established between the mouth of the Indian River through the Hillsboro and Halifax to St. Augustine, Jacksonville would be just no where compared with St. Augustine. Soon there will be daily lines of steamers on the route and the beauties of the St. Johns be eclipsed, and besides it would open a vast avenue of travel up or down the coast, and up or down the St. Johns River. It would be splendid.

Then by and by "in the sweet by and by" a Coast railroad all along on the top of one of these saw palmetto ridges with the beautiful Halifax or Indian or Hillsboro on the one side and the tumbling surges of the Atlantic on the other, with a fine healthy sea breeze in your face at all times and no miasma anywhere would be a ride fit for—well American citizens, and not to be equalled I suppose anywhere in the world, especially as by that time all the Peninsula will be crowded with orange groves and Hebers "spicy breezes" be nowhere in comparison. Why not, John? Why not? All and more than this is being done every day elsewhere—so get up and go to work. This puts me in mind of Sidney Lanier's song:

"Old Master's blowed the morning horn,
 He blowed a mighty blast;
 Get up you lazy Baptists'
 Ses. Your in the grass."

so get up and get, John. But "for all that and all that, and twice as much muckle as all that" I still stick to it and will stick—as the old lady did when she died saying "snip"—that the true outlet for your country is by a canal connecting you at the head of the Halifax with the St. John's River at Dunn's Lake—they call it now Crescent Lake. Then you would at once be in and apart of the Great World—with lines of steam and rail to all parts already established—at St. Augustine via Matanzas you would have some but not as many as at Jacksonville when you now have lines daily to Savannah, Charleston, New York, etc., and mails to all parts of the World—but either will do if you can only get it, and I trust you will.

Loss to Agriculture.

It is estimated that the annual loss to agriculture in this country from the depredations of insects and rodents alone is $10,000,000,000—about $1 a month for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Working Both Ways.

She—"I don't see why you are always telling me of the biscuits your mother used to bake." He—"Well, so far as that goes, I don't see why you are always telling me about the dollars father used to make."

Shaping an Ideal.

"The ideal is in thyself; the impediment, too, is in thyself. Thy condition is but stuff thou art to shape that same ideal out of. What matters it whether such stuff be of this sort or that, so the form thou give be heroic."—Carlyle.

Cold Water Purifies Air.

Place a pitcher of cold water on the table. It will absorb the noxious gases. Few realize how important this means of purification. In the course of a short time the air of the room will be perfectly pure but the water unfit for use.
